Fourteen More Victims Of School Fire Buried

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago—a city which has had more than its share of grief this week — performed another mournful duty Saturday.

Fourteen victims from last Monday's tragic fire at Our Lady of the Angels parochial grade school were buried Saturday after requiem masses in a dozen Roman Catholic churches.

Eighty eight children and three nuns of the Sisters of Charity of the Blessed Virgin Mary religious order were victims of Chicago's worst blaze in 55 years.

Saturday's burden of grief was heaviest of all for the Sarno and Kompanowski families. Both lost two children in Monday's holocaust.

The victims were Kenneth Kompanowski, 14, and his brother, Richard, 10, and William Sarno, 13, and his sister, Joe Anne, 9.

The Sarnos were buried side by side in chill, windswept Mt. Carmel cemetery after mass in Our Lady Help of Christians church. The Kompanowski brothers were buried in St Adalbert's cemetery as the temperature hovered at the 10-degree mark. They were buried after mass in St. Helen's church.

Funeral rites for the 10 other children were held in various Catholic churches and cemeteries.

With the children went the prayers of 325,000 pupils in parochial schools in the archdiocese, who have been attending special masses for several days to pray for the young victims and the nuns.

The 88th child to die was Victor Jacobellis, 9, who succumbed Friday night in St. Anne's hospital. The chestnut-haired, brown-eyed youngster never regained consciousness after firemen carried him from the blazing building. He had suffered fractures and deep burns.

Victor's parents, Nicholas, 44, and Emma, 42, found the lad in St. Anne's late Monday night where they had been directed by an attendant in the County morgue. They promptly offered prayers of thanksgiving and they remained at Victor's bedside continuously until he died.

The Jacobellis gripped the bars of their son's bed in agony as a Catholic priest gave the suffering child the last rites of his church.

Seventy other children remain in hospitals. Doctors said the condition of 13 of them remain critical.

Meanwhile, Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn ordered the questioning Monday of some 500 of the pupils who survived Monday's

Allies Differ On Rejection Of Red Demand They Quit Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — New rifts have developed among the Western allies in the course of drafting a rejection of the Soviet demand that they get out of West Berlin.

U.S. officials said Saturday they believe the differences will be overcome — or perhaps temporarily bridged . . in preparation for decisive talks at Paris beginning next weekend.

Conferees Agree On One Part Of Test Ban Treaty

GENEVA (AP) — The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union Saturday approved the first article of a treaty to prohibit nuclear tests. They agreed to leave the treaty—when and if completed—open for signature by any country.

Agreement on the treaty's article was the first concrete achievement since the three-nation conference on controlled suspension of nuclear tests opened Oct. 31.

The article lays down the agreement of all signatory countries to prohibit nuclear weapons tests. The article has no legal validity until the whole treaty is drawn and ratified by the three governments.

Ahead of the negotiators is a much higher jump: Agreement on an international control system to prevent violations of the ban.

The text of the agreed article was not made public under an accord between the three powers to publish only the complete treaty draft.

Western sources said the wording of the article had established clearly the right of all countries to subscribe to the treaty. This was considered a concession by Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin. He had demanded that the treaty be reserved exclusively to the three powers that now have nuclear weapons.

Representatives of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany will meet there a week from Sunday. The foreign ministers will meet the next day.

A broad range of possible approaches has been discussed.

The possibilities reported here include a British suggestion for a summit conference primarily on issues other than Germany, a French comment at one point that the Soviet note might be ignored entirely, and a West German suggestion that a plebiscite might convince Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that his "free city" formula wouldn't work.

Khrushchev proposed 10 days ago that West Berlin be made a demilitarized "free city." That followed his earlier demand that the four-power occupation be ended and Allied troops and rights be withdrawn. He allowed six months for negotiation from which time, if no agreement was reached, he said the Soviet Union would turn over its rights to German Communist authorities in East Berlin.

During the past week the Western powers in talks centered at Bonn have been searching for a formula to make it clear they have no intention of withdrawing from Berlin. But they also want it understood they are willing to seek settlements on such wider considerations as reunification of Germany.

Public positions taken by various Allied leaders plus other available information make it clear there are divisions of the kind which plagued Allied councils earlier last month when a Berlin blockade was threatened. Any blockade has evidently been put off for six months.

South Protests But Democrat Committee Commends Butler

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic National Committee forced down protesting Southern throats Saturday words of praise for National Chairman Paul M. Butler and his "forthright utterances on civil rights."

Southern members protested bitterly and fruitlessly that this action would tarnish the Democratic election triumph of 1958, crack the party apart, and jeopardize a victory in the 1960 presidential race.

They tried every political and oratorical maneuver they could muster to head off commendation of Butler's no-compromise stand on civil rights. But they went down to defeat on a series of roll-call votes.

In the end, the resolution lauding the national chairman went through, 84-19, with only Southerners balloting against it.

By an even more decisive vote of 91-15, the Dixie committee members failed to unseat Camille Gravel Jr. as national committeeman from Louisiana. His civil rights views are regarded as too moderate by many Southerners.

All in all, the party session went through what Butler himself called some difficult moments over an old, ever-troublesome issue.

But then the committee members went to lunch and cheered Harry S. Truman, who told them to organize so the Democrats "can put somebody in the White House who knows where he is going and knows what he is doing and how to run the country."

The former President remarked that any time you hear somebody say he is substantially a Democrat but always votes for the man, "you know he's a damn Republican."

Before adjourning their session, the Democrats got the black news that they are $750,097.86 in the red.

Butler told the national committee it is essential that the deficit be wiped out in 90 days. The upshot was that a proposal was put through to found a "750" club to enlist members who would ante up $1,000 each.

Former Undersecretary of the Treasury Edward Foley was tapped to take over this project—and $21,000 was raised on the spot from people in the room.

Dulles In Hospital For Observation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles entered Walter Reed Army Hospital Friday night for observation of what doctors diagnosed as "an inflammatory condition of the lower colon."

The State Department in announcing this Saturday night said Dulles' doctors thus far have found "no evidence of any recurrence" of the intestinal cancer for which Dulles was operated on two years ago.

Dulles plans to remain in the hospital for two or three days for treatment.

Physicians were said to be giving him "intestinal antiseptics." He was put on a bland diet.

Only a month ago, on Nov. 3, the 71-year-old Dulles was pronounced in excellent health on the second anniversary of his cancer operation.

The State Department press officer, Lincoln White, told newsmen that Dulles felt "intestinal discomfort" Friday afternoon. He phoned his physician and was advised to come to Walter Reed, where he was operated on previously.

President Eisenhower has been notified of Dulles' condition, officials said. Dulles plans to do no State Department work during the next few days, they said, turning over day-to-day direction of foreign policy to Undersecretary of State Christian Herter Jr.

Aides said Dulles drove to the hospital in his limousine, in contrast to the time two years ago when he was rushed by ambulance from his home after awakening with a fierce stomach pain.

White said Dulles is resting fairly comfortably.

There is no evidence at this time, he added, that another operation will be required.

Dulles expects to leave by plane next weekend as scheduled for Paris, White said. He is due to attend a meeting of the 15-nation North Atlantic Pact Council Dec. 16. In advance of that he has agreed to meet with the British, French and West German foreign ministers in Paris to discuss the Berlin crisis.

The text of the State Department statement on Dulles' condition:

"The secretary of state entered Walter Reed Army Hospital Friday evening for observation as a result of intestinal discomfort.

"The examination shows a mild degree of fever and he is remaining for a few days observation and treatment of an inflammatory condition of the lower colon.

"X-ray examination of the gastro-intestinal tract and other pertinent examinations revealed no evidence of any recurrence of the malignancy of two years ago."

Doctors pronounced Dulles in good condition early last month on the second year anniversary of his cancer operation.

Machinists End 16-Day Strike Against TWA

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Machinists' union Saturday night ended its 16-day strike against Trans World Airlines, with a majority of the union members voting to accept a new contract.

Cliff Miller, District 142 chairman, International Assn. of Machinists, announced incomplete returns from the voting by 6,700 members of 20 locals showed the agreement had been approved. He did not disclose any vote figures.

The district headquarters Saturday night ordered all strike chairmen to remove pickets. TWA earlier had announced plans to resume flights Monday. All its 199 planes had been grounded and nearly all its 19,000 employes furloughed during the strike.

A TWA spokesman said the employes would be called back to work as soon as possible.

Miller said the contract, which will run until Oct. 1, 1960, calls for wage increases of 28 cents an hour for kitchen helpers, 44 cents for mechanics, and 53 cents for a higher classification of mechanics — those who service flight simulators.

That will bring the wage rates to $1.73, $2.95 and $3.56 for the various classifications.

Part of the increase is retroactive to the expiration date of the old contract, Oct. 1, 1957. Other step-ups in pay were retroactive to April 1, 1958, and Oct. 1, 1958. The last adjustment will be Oct. 1, 1959.

Miller said the new wage scale is equal to the top for mechanics in the industry.

The Machinists struck Nov. 21 after negotiations broke down. Within three days, TWA, the nation's fourth largest airline, had all its planes tied up.

Supervisory personnel kept the planes in operating condition, and the aircraft will be ready for use at 12:01 a.m., Monday, a company spokesman said.

75 EARTH SHOCKS RECORDED IN GUATEMALA

GUATEMALA (AP) — Seventy-five earth shocks were recorded here in a 24-hour period up to 7 a.m. Saturday, some of them strong enough to damage old and weak buildings. A number of persons suffered injuries.

The shocks created widespread alarm among residents of an area within a 15-mile radius of this capital. Hundreds of persons deserted their homes during the night and slept in automobiles or parks.

The shocks disrupted electric power supply in some districts.

This city was destroyed by an earthquake in 1917.

President Franklin Pierce, who was in office from 1853 to 1857, made no changes in his Cabinet during his administration.

Nickell Urges Single Board Of Higher Education

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — After tendent, Vernon L. Nickell has 16 years as state school superinswitched his opinion to favoring a single Illinois board of higher education.

The 67-year-old Republican, who declined to seek a fifth term because of health, yields his office Jan. 12 to Democrat George Wilkins and will start a new business enterprise. He declined to announce details of the enterprise.

Looking ahead to the future of Illinois education, Nickell said Saturday he was unafraid of the result as long as school boards and superintendents were made responsive by election to the popular will.

"People want good schools and the boards will do what the people want," he said in an interview.

"School people are slow to move," he said in criticizing the failure of schools to keep their courses of study related quickly to modern discoveries and techniques.

"They haven't moved as rapidly as they should because they are afraid of local reaction," he said. Such reactions would be modified if superintendents kept a flow of pertinent information to the public, he added.

Gov. William G. Stratton recently said he favored a single board for higher education but said it was not practical in the near future.

Nickell, whose office qualifies him for membership on the University of Illinois, Southern Illinois University and teachers college boards, said he changed his attitude toward a single board because of bickering over money for the U. of I. and S.I.U.

4 Of Faubus' Men Leading In School Board Election

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Four members of a six-man slate of candidates pledged to back Gov. Orval E. Faubus in fighting school integration held sizeable leads in early returns from Saturday's school board election.

The other two members of the slate were running behind members of an opposition group which had been criticized by Faubus as integrationist.

Ed I. McKinley, an unopposed candidate, Traffic Judge R. W. Laster, C. C. Railey and Ben Rowland, all of whom campaigned with the vow of supporting Faubus were ahead in the race. Laster had 1,971 votes to Mrs. Charles Russell Matson's 1,454, and Rowland 2,027 to W. F. Rector's 1,546.

Mrs. Pauline Woodson of the pro-Faubus slate had 1,339 compared to 1,528 for Ted Lamb of the group lashed by the governor. A third candidate for this place, George Branscum, had 774.

The other Faubus adherent, Mrs. Margaret Morrison, had 1,486 compared to 1,545 for Everett Tucker, who had castigated the governor for "interfering" in the election.

John Wesley Clayton, making the race against Tucker and Mrs. Morrison, was far behind them with 647 votes.

Although Faubus didn't endorse the six candidates who came out for his policies, he attacked the five-member opposition slate because, he said, the people on it had worked against him in his successful bid for a third term last summer. He said they opposed his actions in the Central High School integration crisis.

Red Threat To City Overshadows Voting In W. Berlin Today

BERLIN (AP) — West Berliners hold a city election Sunday, watched intently by the world. For the real issue is the Soviet plan to convert West Berlin into an unarmed, "free city."

Communist East Germans and West Germans, too, call the voting for municipal offices a plebiscite on Premier Nikita Khrushchev's scheme to get U.S., British, and French troops out of the old German capital.

Mayor Willy Brandt has called on the voters to send a thundering "No" to the Kremlin by defeating every Communist candidate for office. He calls the Soviet plan a device to suck West Berlin into the Communist orbit.

Khrushchev himself has said his plan has no chance "unless the people want it."

Ranged against forceful Mayor Brandt, 44, and other pro-Western candidates for West Berlin's 133-seat Parliament are Communist candidates and the propaganda machine of East Germany and the Soviet Union.

Powerful as that machine is, the Communists have never elected a member of Parliament since Berlin was divided in 1948. Few expect the Communists to make much of a showing this time.

But the Communists have spared no effort to persuade West Berliners that their life will be better if the Western Allies get out. The East German press is depicting the Allied soldiers, especially the Americans, as drunken bums enjoying high living—at the expense of the West Berlin taxpayers—and West Berlin fraulleins.

The Communists have sent East German agitators into West Berlin to make trouble and deface campaign posters of pro-Western parties. About 180 Communists—most of them from the East—were arrested by West Berlin police Friday night. They were released Saturday.

The arrests came as Brandt, leader of West Berlin's anti-Communist Socialist Party, and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer were winding up their election campaigns.

Brandt's Socialists traditionally win elections in West Berlin. But because of the Communist threat, they have joined hands with Adenauer's Christian Democrats in the past and ruled the city with a coalition government.

The current campaign has been so hot that friendly relations between the local branches of the two parties have been strained.

Brandt was conspicuously ab-

Dr. Friedrich, Leading Rocket Scientist, Dies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Hans R. Friedrich, 47, a co-developer of the German V2 rocket and a leading scientist in the development of the Atlas missile, died Saturday.

Friedrich had been in a local hospital since suffering a heart attack Nov. 28. He was first stricken only a few hours before the Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic Missile was successfully launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., on a full course flight.

Friederich was assistant chief engineer for development at Convair-Astronautics here, builder of the Atlas.

He was invited to work in the United States after World War II.

Soared 65,000 Miles Into Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — The moon probe Pioneer III Saturday night started plunging back toward earth and fiery destruction in the atmosphere after soaring 65,000 miles into space.

The end of the Army's space shoot at the sun and the moon was expected about 5:15 p.m. EST Sunday over northwest Africa in the general vicinity of Timbuktu.

The rocket never got up quite enough speed to escape earth's gravitational field, approach and report on the moon and soar into far space.

It did not even equal the 71,300 mile distance achieved by the Air Force Pioneer launched Oct. 11. Space officials nevertheless termed it far from a failure, saying information about the mysterious and deadly zone of radiation surrounding the earth would be highly valuable.

At 9 p.m. EST, some 20 hours after a thrilling blastoff of Pioneer III from Cape Canaveral at 12:45 a.m. Saturday, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration plotted the gold-washed package of instruments as turning back earthwards from about 65,000 miles out in space.

The final blaze of the man-made meteor as it falls back into the earth's atmosphere and is consumed in the air, should be visible for 100 miles, scientists said.

Scientists estimated the time of the turnback and final plunge into the atmosphere from data received at 5:17 p.m., when the rotation of the earth cut off signals from Pioneer III coming into trackers at Goldstone, Calif.

They said the probe was at 22 degrees south latitude and 176 degrees east longitude, or above the south Pacific north of New Guinea, at that time.

The approximate location of the plunge into the atmosphere Sunday was given at 19.5 degrees north latitude and nine degress west longitude, or over the bulge of northwest Africa.

Army and NASA scientists were pleased with the results of Saturday's test. Dr. Wernher von Braun, chief civilian spaceman for the Army, said he thought the firing was "90 per cent successful." His colleagues agreed that even if Pioneer III had failed to zip past the moon and fall into orbit around the sun, it provided much useful information.

"From a scientific point of view it was very close to success," said Dr. William H. Pickering. "From an engineering point of view, it was not."

Pickering is director of the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory. He attended a news conference here with Von Braun.

Von Braun declined to predict when the Army's next space probing attempt will be made, but he said some changes may be necessary in the rocket design. The next period when the moon will be closest to the earth will be about four weeks from now, but whether a new rocket can be made ready in that time is problematical.

The miniature radio transmitter in the two-foot probe vehicle sent back a steady volume of data on the sea of radiation through which the rocket was passing. What was learned about the troubles with

Humphrey Brings Message To Ike From Khrushchev

LONDON (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) said Saturday he is taking a personal message from Nikita Khrushchev to President Eisenhower.

"And it is significant," the senator told a news conference.

Stopping off here for two days after an eight-hour interview with the Soviet Premier in the Kremlin, Humphrey said Khrushchev had gotten confidential at times.

He said Khrushchev had told him: "I'm now going to tell you a secret." After telling it, the ebullient Russian added: "And now I'm going to tell you another."

The senator would not disclose the secrets.

"You couldn't pry them out of me with a crowbar," he said.

The senator also refused to disclose the contents of Khrushchev's personal message to Eisenhower. "I shall deliver it in person," he said.

Humphrey emphasized that he had taken no message from the President to Khrushchev.

Demos To Hold 1960 Convention Week Of July 11

WASHINGTON (AP) — The week of July 11 has definitely been fixed as the time for the 1960 Democratic national convention but no decision on where to hold the big pow-wow will be made before the end of February.

This was announced Saturday by Camille F. Gravel, speaking for the Democratic National Committee's Site Committee, as seven cities vied for the 1960 Democratic gathering.

The national committee voted to have the seven cities — Chicago, Atlantic City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami Beach, New York and Philadelphia — put their offers in writing within 30 days.

The Site Committee will meet again Jan. 16 in New Orleans, then report back to the national body here on Feb. 27.

With The Girl Scouts

The Training Committee of the Board of the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council will meet on Monday morning, Dec. 8, at 10:00 a.m. at the Girl Scout office. This committee consists of Mrs. Mel Hayford, chairman, Mrs. Charles Nicholson, Mrs. Charles Crocker, and Mrs. Darrell Roegge. Plans will be discussed for the training of new leaders who have registered with the Council since the last training session was given, and all training plans will be made for the first half of 1959.

The Waverly Girl Scouts held their investiture ceremony at the home of their leader, Mrs. J. J. Smith, Tuesday, Dec. 2. Eight girls received their tenderfoot rank: Peggy Fitzpatrick, Joyce Hierman, Lynda Pate, Janet Riggs, Carolyn Miner, Peggy Stubblefield, Hannah Van Winkle and Colleen Woods. Bonnie DeLay and Carol Ann Hierman greeted the mothers and took them to their places. Serving in the color guard were Janet Riggs, Lynda Pate, Peggy Stubblefield and Hannah Van Winkle. Mary Ellen Smith and Shirley Stewart furnished instrumental accompaniment as the group sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

Donna Megginson, Dolores Eldridge and Judey Stewart led the new members in a candle lighting ceremony in which the Girl Scout Laws were recited. The new patrol repeated the Promise. Shirley Stewart placed the trefoil pin on each girl and Beverly Meiers pinned on the World pins, each explaining the meaning of the pin. The new scouts were welcomed by the assistant leader, Mrs. Carroll Newingham, who works with this patrol. The Golden Sunset patrol then sang the "Hello" song to their sister scouts.

New Theory On Curing Drug Addiction

Government Doctors Think Patient's Age May Be Clue to 'Kicking Habit'

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —The key to finding a successful cure for narcotics addiction may hinge on a small, vital statistic that governs a person's entire life—his age.

The possibility that there's a certain time in an addict's life when he can kick the drug habit for good is the intriguing theory of some U.S. Public Health Service doctors who are conducting a long range investigation of the narcotics problem.

The idea stems from the findings of several earlier studies which reveal that, contrary to popular opinion, addicts are able to get well and that some do it without medical help.

Dr. Kenneth W. Chapman, PHS narcotics expert, says that many addicts who start taking drugs in their teens or early twenties actually quit when they grow older. This claim is backed by records of medical groups, police agencies and social workers.

It's also supported by a PHS report on the ages of addicts treated at Uncle Sam's narcotics' hospital at Lexington, Ky. It shows that most of them are in their twenties.

After leaving the hospital, these patients often start taking drugs again and have to return for further treatment. But Lexington records show a sharp drop in the number of addicts who come back when they reach their thirties.

"There are strong indications that many of these ex-patients stop using drugs," Dr. Chapman says. First, he explains that it's highly unlikely that they die because medical evidence indicates that the death rate among addicts is not much higher than that of other groups. He also believes it's improbable that they learn how to hide their addiction.

Many law enforcement experts agree. They say that it would be practically impossible for a former addict to start using drugs again without them knowing about it.

Dr. Chapman believes that the Lexington statistics become even more significant when they are compared with prison convict records.

"They're practically identical," he says. "Most convicts are young. Since they lack maturity, they keep getting into trobule. But many eventually seem to grow up, make an effort at social adjustment and are able to stay out of prison."

The PHS specialist explains that a young drug addict and a criminal usually have many of the same emotional characteristics. The main difference is that one turns to crime, the other to drugs.

"Drugs offer an easy solution to the problem of an unstable individual who does not know where to turn and who seeks the easy way out. They make him feel like a big shot and that all is well with the world. Like the convicts who eventually outgrow their criminal activities, many addicts start to mature and stop using drugs."

Narcotics experts warn, however, that there's always a chance that former addicts will start using drugs again if their emotional troubles are not absolutely cured.

That's why Dr. Chapman believes that addicts might stand a better chance of completely recovering if they receive rehabilitative treatment when their growing-up period first starts.

He explains that treatment usually doesn't work on teenage addicts or those in their early twenties because they just don't want to quit. And the middle-age, chronic addicts are usually too fixed in their ideas to change.

The PHS study calls for social workers to keep track of several hundred addicts in the New York area who have received treatment at Lexington. The project will last between 5 and 10 years.

The purpose will be to find out the number of narcotics patients who recovered compared to those who started using drugs again. From this information, Dr. Chapman explains that it may be possible for doctors to determine at what age an addict is most likely to respond to treatment and the types of therapy that works best.

Dr. Chapman hopes the study will prove to be a major step in eliminating the country's drug addiction problem.

"For some unknown reason," he says, "there's an upsurge in addiction cases about once in a generation. Consequently, people tend to forget about the problem and are shocked when it pops up again. The present rash of addictions is already starting to decline. This study may help medical science take some really effective action when the next one occurs."

Dr. T. O. Hardesty Celebrates 89th Birthday

Dr. Tully Overall Hardesty celebrates his 89th birthday today at his room at Passavant Memorial hospital after serving the Jacksonville area more than 50 years as a physician and surgeon. Dr. Hardesty decided to grow a beard about 18 months ago because of a lifelong urge. He keeps informed of daily events by listening to his radio, reading newspapers and corresponding with the use of his typewriter.

"Sit down and rest young fellow, I saw you drive up with that big camera," Dr. Hardesty beckoned from his favorite spot beside the window.

BY JOHN MARTIN

Having known of Dr. Hardesty since early childhood, many thoughts ran through my mind while driving to my assignment which was modestly worded, "See how Dr. Hardesty is getting along" I wondered whether I should speak softly or if I should get my story and get away in a minimum of time.

All my thoughts vanished as I noticed the bright twinkle in the eyes of the veteran medical man behind the 18 month growth of red-tinged beard. After a few moments I realized he could talk a leg off me most anytime.

"Let's talk about what has happened in the world since you've been around," I said. About two hours later I thanked him for his time and retreated to the Journal Courier office amazed at what I had missed by being born 30 years too late and humble for the knowledge I had gained.

Dr. Hardesty was born on a farm in Lincoln county, Missouri, Dec 7, 1869, where he lived and worked until 1889. He graduated from Central Normal College at Danville, Ind., in 1890 after completing a teachers and business course. His first job was teaching at a school near Troy, Mo., at $30 per month.

He entered Marion Simms Medical College (now a part of Washington University School of Medicine) and graduated in April of 1896 as a Doctor of Medicine.

His first practice was started in 1896 on the banks of the Illinois River in Calhoun county at Kampsville. While there he bought a lot and built a dwelling which served as a residence, office and hospital.

Moves To Jacksonville

He was married in 1904 and then moved to Jacksonville to set up his practice at 336 West State street. This was the same year that Teddy Roosevelt won re-election to the White House.

He served seven years as county physician before entering the Army in 1917 at Fort Oglethorpe.

Has Unusual War Record

His military career was one of outstanding service to his fellow soldiers. He served at several military establishments in this country before being sent overseas. He left for France with 3,000 soldiers aboard a troopship. Shortly after getting underway a flu epidemic hit the ship with all 3,000 soldiers sick. Seven other doctors were also confined to quarters with the epidemic. Fourteen died enroute to France and when the ship arrived, 50 were too sick to be moved.

Dr. Hardesty received orders to stay aboard the ship and make the return voyage with the sick men. When they arrived at New Jersey, 25 had died.

His first experience in the art of embalming came on the return trip. He embalmed all 25 with a make-shift kit found aboard ship and they were in perfect condition when the ship docked.

Of the 24 days at sea, he was on duty 21 hours each day without getting sick. He was immediately ordered to return to France to rejoin his outfit.

He received a citation from the Surgeon General for meritorious service aboard the ship.

The Jacksonville Daily Journal carried an article in 1918 which was a portion of a letter by Dr. F. P. Norbury, who was a member of the committee on mental hygiene in New York, to Mrs. Garm Norbury.

"I met Dr. Hardesty Monday. He had returned from overseas on transport in care of sick. Influenza and pneumonia cases so sick they were unable to land over there and had to stay aboard and return. He came with them. He won Commendation for his faithfulness, care and devotion under great difficulties. He is a medical hero and I believe will receive distinguished mention."

He finally got to France and cared for many of the wounded at a medical outpost.

Served As County Doctor

After serving as county physician before his Army service, he was appointed to that office again in 1930 and held the post until 1962.

He served members of the county farm, jail and police station for many years. He was never too busy to serve the less fortunate members of society or those in poor economic situations.

In 1936 he removed 262 tonsils and extracted 750 teeth in the basement of the Morgan county court house. In all his years of practice, he has delivered about 2,000 babies. He served as county health officer for a number of years.

Interest In TB Society

He has been interested in Oak Lawn TB Sanitorium since its beginning in this county. In 1904, deaths in Morgan county were evaluated and 11 of every 100 were found due to tuberculosis.

It was at this time that Dr. Hardesty along with three other medical men started agitation for some kind of concrete action. The Morgan County Anti-Tuberculosis Society was founded and is still active today. He served as president, vice president and held many other offices in the society as well as serving on the board of trustees for a number of years.

"I was very pleased the people of Morgan county voted to continue the Oak Lawn tax at the last election," he said.

He received an American Legion award in 1932 for "Unusual and Unselfish Service" in the interest of public health.

He has been active in county, state and national medical societies throughout his many years of active practice.

He was forced to retire in 1966 due to ill health and has since recovered to a great degree. He is no longer confined to his bed and moves about his room at Passavant hospital quite well. He served on the staff of both Passavant and Our Saviour's hospitals in Jacksonville.

"Happy Birthday, Doc"

Volumes could be written of the interesting parts of Dr. Hardesty's life—many of them filled with both chuckles and tears.

On behalf of this newspaper, I would like to extend our very best wishes for a happy birthday and our deepest thanks for Dr. Hardesty's dedicated career of faithful service to humanity.

Trapper Reports Foxes Are Thick In Jersey County

JERSEYVILLE—Foxes will be as plentiful in western Jersey county for trappers this season as they were last year, according to George Kirchner of Richwood township who was a Jerseyville visitor Wednesday afternoon.

Kirchner always traps a lot of foxes each season, more for pleasure than for profit, for in recent years the best of red foxes have not been worth skinning and the trappers today are only catching the animals for the county bounty of two dollars and the advantage of controlling the animals from becoming entirely too numerous.

Last season Kirchner caught 45 pelts. He collected the bounty offered by Jersey county of two dollars a head, and ditched the majority of them. A few he sold at 75 cents each to some Alton friends who were going to have them made into a garment.

"There's a lot of foxes barking around again," Kirchner stated. "They are getting pretty bold too, and even come up to the house, pretty close and bark. I may get to trapping a few of them again, but I've been too busy to think much about it up to now. I got a late start last season, too. I may just scalp them this season and not skin them after I make the catch."

Kirchner reported that fur bearing animals of other species are not too plentiful. "Mink are mighty scarce in this country," he said. "I have not seen a mink track in my country this fall. There may be a few around but if there are, I just haven't seen seen them. There's a considerable number of coons about, but they're not worth taking for their pelts. I can remember when I got a ten spot for a well stretched coon hide. I got about six bits each last year. Not worth skinning."

SOUTH'S LARGEST

The brown pelican, which is four or more feet in length and has a bill a foot long, is the largest bird found commonly along the southern coasts of the United States.

Return Verdicts In Two Greene County Deaths

WHITE HALL—Two coroner's juries investigating the deaths of two Greene county residents Friday evening returned verdicts of accidental death due to injuries received in an automobile accident.

The inquests were held into the deaths of Lyndell J. Wyatt of White Hall and Jerry Thien of Carrollton. Both men were dead on arrival at hospitals in their respective cities following an automobile collision between the Carrollton-White Hall men on highway 67.

They were involved in an accident on Nov. 8 in which four other persons were hospitalized. Donald Reese, 25, of Carrollton, remains a patient in St. Joseph's hospital in Alton where he was transferred after the accident. His injuries prohibited him from making a statement which could be entered at the inquest Friday.

Kenneth Nolan, 19, and his brother, Dale Nolan, 22, have been released from the hospitals to their home near Carrollton but are still recovering from injuries. Mrs. June Wyatt has been released from the White Hall hospital.

Members of the White Hall jury were foreman, George W. Livingston, Dorothy Young, Mary Jones, Irma Hatcher, Beulah Campbell and Thelma Roe.

Serving on the Carrollton jury were foreman, Ben Lake, Jr.; Raymond Kirbach, Robert Bandy, L. A. Hardaway, Stanley Stendback and Edward Coleman.

The inquests were conducted by Greene County Coroner William H. Wolfe with testimony being given by Sheriff Leonard Stone and State Troopers W. O. Culbreth and Harold Walker.

Teachers Prepare S. W. Nichols Christmas List

Jacksonville school teachers are now drawing up the list of names of children who will receive S. W. Nichols Foundation Christmas gifts this season.

The general committee in charge consists of Oliver Buck, Jefferson school, chairman; Mildred Gregory of Washington and Nona Read of Lafayette.

One teacher in each school building is aiding in the compilation of the list. Eligible children must live in the city limits of Jacksonville and in the sixth grade or below, and "their little brothers and sisters at home."

About 250 gifts were distributed last year. The general committee feels now that approximately the same number will be required this Christmas.

As in the past the policemen will assemble the gift packages and the firemen will deliver them.

Siren To Call Policemen to Duty On Defense Day

CARROLLTON—Harold Pruitt, director of Civil Defense in both Greene County and the city of Carrollton has announced that Civil Defense Day will be observed in Carrollton Sunday when the new fire siren will be used for the first time to sound the alert which will call all members of the Carrollton Auxiliary Police for duty.

The hour at which the alert is to take place will not be announced before time. The siren will be heard within a three to five mile radius of Carrollton.

The siren was recently mounted on the old bell tower which was moved from the lawn at the Public Library to its present location at the rear of the City hall. Woman, Child Slightly Hurt As Cars Crash

Mrs. Jean J. Walker and her daughter, Deborah Lynne Frazier, three years old, of Murrayville route 2 were slightly injured at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in an automobile collision at South Main street and College avenue, where automatic signal lights control traffic.

The mother and daughter were taken to Our Saviour's hospital, given emergency treatment, and were able to return home. The little girl sustained a cut on one of her lips. Mrs. Walker was bruised on her head and chest.

Mrs. Walker, driving a 1951 Ford, was making a lefthand turn, according to a police report. The other car was driven by John Sutphen, 1123 West State street, who was traveling west on College avenue.

The Walker car was towed to the Chevrolet garage, with damage to the right front end. Sutphen's 1954 Chrysler was taken to the Lukeman garage. It has damage to the left front end.

Officers who went to the scene were Capt. Howard Stout, Patrolmen Splain and Smith.

MORGAN GETS CANCER EDUCATION FILMS

Six color films dealing with cancer education were placed in the Morgan county schools film library Friday.

They are the gift of the Illinois division of the American Cancer society and came through the efforts of the Morgan county chapter.

The 16 mm. sound movies in full color will be permanently on file in the office of the county superintendent of schools and will be available without charge to classroom teachers, colleges and institutions and all interested groups.

American Cancer society carries on a threefold program of research, education and service. Films, such as those given to the Morgan County schools, play an important role in the program of education since knowledge about cancer helps to save lives if it aids in the early detection of the disease.

The films are: Man Alive, an animated cartoon dealing with the best attitude toward cancer and the danger of fear; The Other City, in which the danger signals, as well as the tendency to shrug them off, are documented by seven people, each acting as spokesman for one signal; From One Cell, especially prepared by biology teachers, and showing the behavior of normal and cancer cells; Cancer—A Research Story, the highlights of the present day research program with scenes from the actual laboratories where the research is carried on; Breast Self Examination, for senior high and college girls, and women; and Career: Medical Technology, a guidance film showing an interesting profession in action.

All of the films are 16mm, sound films, in full color.

Local Auxiliary Participates In Vet Gift Shop

Mrs. William McMahan, president of Jacksonville Unit 279, American Legion Auxiliary, announces the local unit will be one of the many units throughout the state to again participate in the annual Christmas Gift Shop project, a unique program sponsored by the Auxiliary in 19 veterans hospitals as part of a vast rehabilitation program.

Mrs. Audrey Livengood, hospital chairman, with the help of Auxiliary members, improvises a shop in the Jacksonville State Hospital. This is stocked with hundreds of items suitable for Christmas giving. Prior to the event, the shop is attractively decorated and the items arranged to give the proper Christmas atmosphere. On the designated day, the hospitalized veteran receiving $20.00 or less per month government compensation is allowed to select without cost to him, gifts for the members of his family.

Auxiliary members wrap the gifts with Christmas paper and ribbon, and the veteran encloses a card he has personally signed. The package is then wrapped for mailing and is sent on its way by the Auxiliary member, without any identification of the sponsoring organization attached, thus giving the veteran an opportunity to do his own Christmas shopping and giving. Money for this project is derived from contributions of the various units, including Jacksonville unit.

Mrs. Willard Peterson of Victoria, state president of the American Legion Auxiliary, and Miss Winifred Yeoman of Rossville, state chairman of the Christmas Gift Shop project will attend as many of the Gift Shops as possible. When more than one shop is scheduled for the same date, representatives will be sent to carry out the supervision of the shops.

Christmas Gift Shops are scheduled for Dwight, Dec. 9; Downey VA Hospital, Dec. 10 and 11; Jacksonville State Hospital, Dec. 11; Marion VA Hospital, Dec. 12; Anna State Hospital, Dec. 13; Menard State Hospital, Dec. 15; and Alton State Hospital, Dec. 16.

It is not necessary to give a death grip to a coffee cup. If your lipstick has been blotted and still comes off on china, this is probably what you've been doing. Delicacy and just enough contact to keep the coffee from dribbling is what you need, not looking as if you are going to take a bite out of the crockery.

Rep. Green Tells Of Safety, Governmental Talks At Conference

State Representative and Mrs. Hugh Green have returned from Chicago where Mr. Green has been in attendance at conferences of the President's Committee on Street and Highway Safety, the Board of Governors of the Council of State Governments and the meeting of the General Assembly of the States.

Mr. Green is the Illinois member of the Board of Governors and Chairman of Illinois Commission on Intergovernenmental Cooperation.

He said Saturday that the Council is a joint governmental agency of all the states—created by the states, entirely supported and directed by the state as: 1) a medium to assist in improving state legislative administrative and judicial practices, 2) an agency for cooperation among the states in solving interstate problems, both regional and national, 3) a means of facilitating and improving federal-state relations. In brief, the Council exists to serve governmental progress within the individual states, among the states working together, and by the states in their relations with the federal government.

Discuss Accident Records

Among the subjects considered at the conference on street and highway safety were: Traffic Accident Investigation and Records Keeping, Drivers License Administration, Engineering in Traffic Safety, Vehicle Safety, Engineering Safety, Traffic Education, Inspection, Policies and State Traffic Service to Communities.

The session of the General Assembly of the States devoted themselves to the Emerging Responsibilities of the States, Education, Metropolitan Area Problems, Veteran's Programs, Mental Retardation and Federal-State Relations.

Space Official Speaks

A highlight of the programs was an address delivered at the Thursday evening State Dinner by DeMarquis D. Wyatt of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He pointed out that, within a decade, scientists have learned to build tiny instruments for converting measurements to electrical signals, further saying:

"We have developed these tiny, complex data systems to such a degree that it is feasible to utilize such systems for recording and transmitting data for months on end from distances of millions of miles from the earth.

"During the recent Pioneer I flight to distances of about 80,000 miles from the earth, for example, the amount of data transmitted to ground receiving stations filled over 200 miles of recording tape. The reason for using instrumented satellites and space probes thus tend to become obvious."

Mr. Wyatt, in considering the unforseen benefits to be derived from scientific research in the foregoing field, pointed out that the great upsurge in television in peace-time followed the developments in electronics during wartime for the national security. He said:

"Space flight lies within our grasp. There are a variety of sufficient motivations for engaging in a strong program."

Edward E. Johnston Attends

Mr. Green stated that in attendance at the General Assembly of the States were delegates from 34 states and Edward E. Johnston, formerly of Jacksonville, now Secretary of the Territory of Hawaii.

Governor Stratton as retiring President of the Council of State Governments turned over the gavel to the newly chosen President, Governor LeRoy Collins of Florida.

TONNAGE DUTY

So scarce was ammunition in colonial North Carolina that every vessel not owned in North Carolina had to pay a tonnage duty on gunpowder, gunshot and flints.

Music Of Bells To Be Featured During Service

ASHLAND—Taking the role of Swiss Bell ringers and featuring their set of 40 hand bells which fill a 12-foot table, the Kindig evangelistic party will climax the series of special meetings at the First Baptist church Sunday night at 7 p.m. Another Sunday feature will be a revival rally combining the church and Sunday school in the morning.

The Ladies Aid of the Church of Christ enjoyed their annual Christmas potluck in the church basement Thursday with 30 being present. Four guests were present: Rev. and Mrs. M. Gallgher of Urbana, former pastor of the local church; Mrs. Earl Briar, a sister of Mrs. Gallgher, of Chandlerville, and another sister, Miss Ruth Smith, a missionary in the Philippine Islands, who is home on a furlough. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Gallgher before partaking of the dinner.

Mrs. Esther Roth and Mrs. Leta Hammack were hostesses. The table was decorated in keeping with the holiday season.

During the routine of business, the following officers were elected: president, Pearl Mau; vice president, Catherine Cosner; secretary, Edith Caswell; corresponding secretary, Louise Quinley; treasurer, Dorothy Evans.

The Christmas story was read by Rev. Gallgher, and who also offered prayer; and Miss Ruth Smith, missionary, told of the Christmas customs in the Philippines, and her talk was very interesting.

A "Ruth Smith Shower" was sponsored by the Ladies Aid, and Ruth was the recipient of many useful items needed for the mission field, and also personal items for herself.

WM. L. LEWIS PRESENTED CITATION FROM NAVY CORPS

WILD DUCKS BEGIN TO MOVE INLAND IN JERSEY COUNTY

JERSEYVILLE—Wild ducks are beginning to move inland in the search for food local hunters reported Friday. There has not been any large flight such as was expected in advance of the blizzard in the northern areas.

Thus far the waterfowl have confined their feeding mostly to the river area. Now they are beginning to hit the prairie cornfields to feed on the shelled corn left by the corn pickers.

String them in shrubs and trees, or around wreaths at door or windows. For an oldtime look, use assorted gay and festive colors. For a modern air, one color only.

mushroom lights

Sleek and unobtrusive, they'll light the path to your door. Or place them among shrubbery—use colored bulbs—for a more dramatic effect.

floodlamps

Their clear white dramatizes your entranceway, or spotlights a decorative display. Interesting if you use colored lenses, too. More effective if you hide them among bushes.

Ask your electrical contractor about permanent outdoor wiring—you'll use it all year 'round.

From home to home along your street, light brings the sparkling Christmas spirit to life.

And it's fun to figure out color schemes and decorations . . . which kind of lights should go where. Fun for your family . . . neighborhood fun, too.

We hope you'll find a spark in these few ideas to help make your "outdoor" Christmas as cheerful and friendly as it is inside your home. In using Christmas lights outdoors, use weatherproof lights and wiring.

3RD GRADE VISITS JOURNAL-COURIER

The third grade of Lincoln School were guests of the Journal-Courier Friday afternoon. The boys and girls toured the offices and plant facilities to better understand how the day's news is prepared for distribution as a printed sheet.

County Judge Will Move To 1st Floor

This will be moving week at the Morgan county court house as several changes are made in office arrangement.

Most important of the changes will be removal of the County Judge's office from the second to the first floor.

This shift in arrangement has been considered for some time, both for convenience of the public and of the County Judge and County Clerk offices, as business of these two offices is closely related.

County Judge John B. Wright will move from the second floor to two rooms on the first floor north of the offices of County Clerk Louise Coop. These rooms have been used by the clerk for permanent registration headquarters and tax extension.

The office of Supervisor of Assessments will be moved from the first floor to the basement, with entrance from an inside stairway. Permanent registration offices will be moved to the room formerly occupied by Kohl Perbix, Supervisor of Assessments.

The office of County Treasurer Jack Andrews will be moved from the basement to a section of the room occupied by permanent registration headquarters. This is the former location of the Treasurer's office.

Chairman Hobart Rigg of the board of commissioners, Sheriff Staley R. Keller, custodian, and Commissioners Paul Johnson and Byron Smith, have worked out the new arrangement of offices. Moving is expected to be completed sometime this week.

No use has yet been assigned for the rooms to be vacated by the County Judge.

Hoops Dead; New Craze Sought

By ROBERT R. METZ
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Billion of revolutions and thousands of sore backs after it arrived on the American scene, the hula hoop has joined the Davy Crockett hat and the yo-yo in that big toybox in the sky.

And after the hula hoop?

Well, for one thing the garden hose manufacturers are back making garden hose and, for another, the search is on in the toy industry for the next big fad.

In a New York department store, a saleslgirl waved a hand at stacks of the brightly colored plastic tubing and uttered a blase epitaph for the fad:

"In September, when we couldn't get enough of them, we were selling them for $1.86. Then it was $1.49, $1.24, and now 97 cents.

"Next we'll be giving them away."

And at a cut rate toy shop where hoops are selling for 49 cents, there is the admission "we haven't sold one in a month."

A spokesman for the Toy Manufacturers of the U.S. reports similar conditions throughout most of the nation.

Now you may be wondering what garden hose manufacturers have to do with all this. Well, the plastic tubing from which hula hoops are made could not be produced by just any toy factory that wanted to get in on a hot seller. It had to be turned out by someone with the expensive machinery needed to extrude plastic. Most people with plastic extrusion machinery make garden hose.

By one of those coincidences from which fortunes often are made, the garden hose makers were in their slack season when the hoop hit the West Coast last spring via Hawaii and Australia (its birthplace). They were happy to keep their plants humming and their employes working by turning out the tubing for most of the estimated 27 firms that marketed hoops during the height of the craze this summer and fall.

By another coincidence, the demand for hoop tubing started to fall off just as the hose makers normally start turning out next year's supplies for suburban gardeners.

The reasons offered by toy industry sources for the collapse of the craze are many. For one, hoop spinning is basically an outdoor activity and it is difficult to keep the hoop whirling while wearing the outer clothing that children don with the onset of cooler weather.

For another, some of the later entries in the field turned out inferior hoops that came apart or cracked in two almost immediately.

But perhaps the simplest explanation is that the market was saturated. No one knows exactly how many hoops were sold, but industry guesses put the figure at somewhere between 25 and 30 million.

Two of the major companies in the field, the Wham-O Manufacturing Co., of San Gabriel, Calif., —which was the first to market the novelty in the U.S.—and Spin-a-Hoop—the firm backed by TV star Art Linkletter—have moved into the foreign market. Wham-O is turning them out in Toronto, Tokyo, London and Frankfurt.

A host of variations on the basic hoop, such as hanging bells

THE NEXT CRAZE? Manufacturers of the 'Whirly-Whirler' hope it will go over as big as the hula-hoop—even half as big.

on it and adding a rope that turns it into a sort of lariat, largely failed to stem the decline in interest.

Toy industry spokesmen say they believe interest will revive next spring and that the hoop will become a warm weather seasonal item in the trade.

But no one believes the hoop ever again will be as big as it was this year, and so the search is on for the next craze.

One St. Louis firm, the Whirley Corp., hopes it has the answer in its "Whirley-Whirler," a plate-shaped piece of plastic that is spun on the end of a stick. A lip around the bottom of the plate and an indentation in the center supposedly gives the user the "skill" a juggler takes years to perfect.

But no one can tell yet whether it will become a national craze, for as one wary toy buyer put it, "There's no accounting for the taste of the American child."

Salem WSCS Yuletide Meeting At Sayre Home

The December meeting of Salem WSCS was held in the home of Mrs. Esther Sayre at noon. Mrs. Sayre and her assistants, Mrs. Marie Ranson and Miss Frances Moy served a two course luncheon to the members and guests.

In the afternoon session, Mrs. Vivian Parlier called the meeting to order with the group singing, "Joy To The World." Devotions were given by Mrs. Causner who related the Christmas Story while Mrs. Marietta Fox gave the prayer.

Mrs. Lucille Newbery read the secretary's report and Miss Margaret Wax the treasurer's report. During the business session plans were made for serving lunch at the Parlier sale January 6. Mrs. Mable Robson, Mrs. Ann Armstrong and Mrs. Orion Masters will have charge of arrangements.

Miss Fannie Boyd had charge of the program. She read a description story, "Annie's Christmas Letter to God" and was accompanied by Mrs. Addie Rawlings, playing Silent Night, Jingle Bells, and Faith of Our Fathers on the accordian.

Roll call was answered by members paying for articles bought at the silent auction which was held throughout the day.

The meeting closed with the song, Faith of Our Fathers and the Lord's Prayer.

Guests were Mrs. Harry Thompson, Mrs. Marietta Fox, Miss Eva Myers, Steve Fox, Nancy Davies, Dale Hamilton, Harvey Davies and Roy Sayre.

Cull to choice slaughter ewes 6.00-8.00.

CHICAGO (AP) — The butcher hog market weakened rather steadily this week with the supply of 52,500 head the second largest for any week in almost two years.

For the 12 major markets, the supply was the heaviest since December 1956.

Prices declined on four of the five trading days with barrows and gilts closing the week 25 to 50 cents lower than last week for weights under 220 lbs and 75 cents to $1 lower for weights over 230 lbs. Sows, which comprised about 15 per cent of the offerings, were 75 cents to $1 lower.

Buyers complained that offerings under 215 lbs. were scarce most of the time. Some orders for No 1 and No. 2 grades of these weights were not filled.

The slaughter steer supply was little changed from the previous week either in total run or class of offerings. Buyers continued their demand for lighter weights and these were strong to 50 cents higher while weights over 1,400 lbs were as much as 50 cents lower.

The sheep market was decidedly bearish all week on a sharp increase in supply. Trade was slow and clearance incomplete on some days with some buyers refusing slaughter lambs over 110 lbs. The setback was 25 to 75 cents on slaughter lambs but slaughter ewes were unchanged.

New York Stock Market

By WILLIAM FERRIS

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rested this week. After the wild gyrations of recent weeks, the more restful atmosphere in Wall Street was not unwelcome.

Price changes for major stocks were relatively small each day, although an assortment of specialties made spectacular daily gains. Often, however, they fell back the next day.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 10 cents for the week, closing at $204.40. That compares with the record high of $207.70 set Thursday, Nov. 20.

Volume for the week totaled 17,565,462 shares, smallest for any five-day week since the week ended Sept. 13, when it totaled 15,730,680.

The brave new world was never far from the minds of traders. On Monday they had news the United States had fired the Atlas missile, plus an unconfirmed report Russia possessed an airplant partly powered by nuclear energy. On Friday the U.S. Army was preparing to send up a moon rocket.

In between these items, the Defense Department announced a new series of satellite firings starting this year and going into 1959.

Another minor feature of the market was the relative steadiness of utilities. These are generally regarded as "defense" stocks, in the sense that they aren't subjected to wide price breaks as are stocks in many cyclical industries.

Despite a 20 cent drop on Friday, the utility component of the AP 60 stock average advanced $1.00 for the week. It was the only component which did advance, and that accounted for the minor gain in the 60 stock average.

Price levels of the U.S. Government and corporate bond markets declined this week as money got a little tighter and short term interest rates went up.

Long range U.S. Treasury bonds lost from half to three-quarters of a point on very slight volume.

Corporates closed lower on average on somewhat larger turnover. Investment quality issues [illegible] to a new 1958 low on the [illegible] index. Utilities and [illegible] bonds also drifted downward, [illegible] a slight rise by rails and [illegible].

[illegible] rose to $31,890,000 [illegible] value on the big board from $27,709,000 and $28,532,400 for the corresponding week in 1957.

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

By WALTER BREEDE JR.
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Business, still shrugging off the effects of recession, braced itself this week for the coming of the age of space.

As the Army hurled a rocket toward the moon, bankers, investors and just plain speculators took a closer look at industry's progress in the guided missiles field.

Shares of companies making rocket components and missile fuels performed brilliantly in an otherwise listless stock market.

Stock sales totaled 17,565,462 shares in the latest week compared to 16,941,099 in the previous week and 11,077,429 shares in the same 1957 week.

Bond sales had a par value of $31,890,000 in the latest week against $27,709,000 for the previous week and $28,532,400 in the corresponding week last year.

Interest in missiles was heightened by reports—later disputed at the Pentagon — that Russia had successfully flown an atomic-powered aircraft.

Preoccupation with space age problems was manifest at the annual meeting in Bal Harbour, Fla., of the Investment Bankers Assn. These are the men who help raise the billions of dollars of capital required for such projects as superhighways, schools, factories, power plants, atomic-powered submarines, space ships, satellites and rockets. They act as middlemen in the sale of new issues of bonds and stock.

Lt. Gen. James M. Gaven (Ret), the Army's former rocket chief, told the bankers: "I honestly believe we will enter space more rapidly as our whole economy benefits from the technological advances in our space programs. We are beginning, just beginning, to utilize benefits from missiles in civilian commerce. While developing the missile industry we have created new materials and new technology."

The latest batch of business indicators showed further evidence of general economic recovery this week, albeit at considerable less than rocket speed.

While auto dealers reported a pickup in sales, Ford and Chevrolet started a real old-fashioned production race. Chevvy turned out 43,500 cars — its highest output for any week this year; Ford Motor Co.'s Ford division rolled out 33,360.

Although Chrysler Corp. was hampered by strikes, the industry's total new car production zoomed to a new 1958 high of nearly 147,000.

The Commerce Department reported that new construction activity declined less in November than it usually does at this time of year. Construction outlays for the month totaled $4,400,000,000. That's an increase of $200,000,000 over November 1957.

The consumer — the state of his pocketbook and the state of his mind — came under scrutiny this week at the University of Michigan survey research center. After an intensive survey of the buying plans for families earning $5,000 a year or more, university researchers came up with these findings:

By and large, consumers are optimistic. They feel this is a good time to buy "big Ticket" items like refrigerators, furniture, TV sets and stoves. But they'd be a lot happier, and in much more of a buying mood, if prices came down a little.

Prof. George Katona of the university's survey research center said consumer dissatisfaction with rising prices is a major obstacle to a really rapid business upturn.

The rapid emergence of Russia as a world trade power worried U. S. businessmen this week. Soviet influence made itself felt at several sensitive spots: in Argentina, where—in the midst of delicate negotiations between the Buenos Aires government and two Western oil companies — Russia offered to swap 1 million tons of Soviet crude oil for Argentine goods, and in Tokyo, where the Russians and the Japanese concluded a 25-million-dollar barter agreement.

Max D. Howell, executive vice president of the American Iron & Steel Institute, predicted a rising flood of Russian steel products in world markets. Said Howell: "We are faced with an economic war of great dimensions."

Briefly over the business scene: Soft coal prices may go up about 20 cents a ton next year following the award of a $2 a-day pay increase of John L. Lewis' miners. . . Oil refinery workers are planing a nationwide strike . . . Sears, Roebuck & Co. predicts its Christmas sales this year will be the biggest ever recorded . . . Somebody paid $125,000 for a seat on the New York Stock Exchange this week (it's exchange policy not to give the buyer's name when prices are made public) . . . Prosperity note: Woolens & Worsteds of America Inc. says Santa Claus is wearing a beard of wool this year instead of cotton. That, says the association, explains his cheery smile. The wooly beard keeps his chin warm on windy street corners.

Allies Differ On Rejection Of Red Demands

The central question over which the splits have occurred each time is how tough to get. In general German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is said to want a tough policy in replying to Moscow. At the other extreme British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd has made it equally clear Britain prefers to hold out inducements to try to draw the Soviets into negotiation. The U.S. posiion may be summed up as one of firmness tempered with an avowed readiness to negotiate on German unification. Thus Secretary of State Dulles appears somewhere between Adenauer and Lloyd.

State Department authorities are privately puzzled by the attitude of the French government under Premier Charles de Gaulle and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville. France so far has been active chiefly in turning down various proposals, contending the Western position had already been made unmistakably clear.

U. S. authorities do not know whether De Gaulle simply thinks silence at this stage is more effective in showing determination to the Russians, or whether he is developing a bargaining position. They think it possible he may be taking this line in advancing his recent demand for revival of full cooperation among the Western Big Three.

New Light [and Dark] on Plant Growth

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— Light—just plain ordinary light—may turn out to be the best friend of the farmer and the mink raiser.

Scientists at Department of Agriculture research stations are finding new uses for light that may work miracles on the farm, in forestry, in vegetable and flower growing—and in fur farming.

Take a tree as an example. Most trees grow in the summer, lie dormant in winter. This, of course, is unprofitable. Trees do this in the North because it is cold. But the tree is such a creature of custom that in the South trees likewise shed their leaves and stop growing in winter.

Research men at the Agriculture Department's plant physiology research station in Beltsville, Md., have discovered that it's the shorter days and longer nights that trigger trees into winter doldrums. They've discovered that if you use a little extra light and fool the trees into thinking the days are still long and the nights still short, you can keep a tree growing all winter, to the profit of everyone concerned.

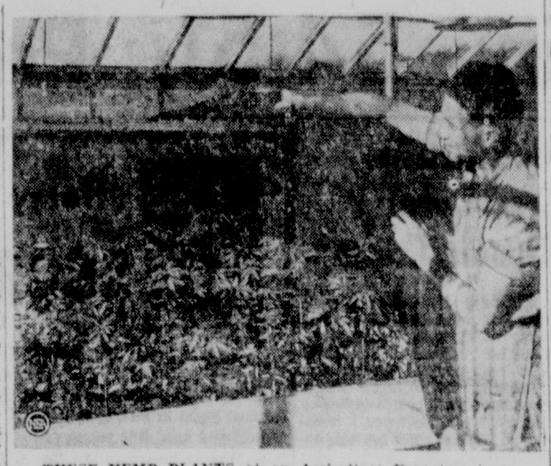
Of course, it's too expensive to keep the southern forests lighted. But in nurseries, where the shoots are close together, it may be possible in a few years to make young trees grow two years in 12 months.

A mink raiser has the same time-equals-money problem. His mink must be brought to a cold weather prime before going to the fur market. Mink men have discovered that an innocent, unsuspecting mink can be hurried to his prime in a shorter time by the judicious giving and taking away of light. This shortens raising time and saves money.

Department of Agriculture scientists working with Dr. Harry A. Borthwick thinks this same method may be workable on most other animals that produce furs for the lady of the house.



THESE HEMP PLANTS at an Agriculture Department research station are about to be fooled into thinking night has fallen. The deception is part of the study of the effect of light on plant growth.

Chicken farm operators are already using light to entice hens into laying more eggs. But there are other possibilities. Changing the amount of light while they're growing may lead to better-eating chickens and turkeys, or aid the fowls to fatten in a shorter time.

There's the possibility that apple, pear and other fruit trees might be made to bear fruit in off seasons by the judicious use of light and darkness.

Already some nurserymen are producing chrysanthemum and orchid blooms at any season of the year customers want them — by using light and darkness. With chrysanthemums, blooming is delayed by turning on a light for a few minutes to several hours in the middle of the night.

The research men have discovered that different types of soy beans, wheat, tomatoes, strawberries, and a number of other vegetables, grains, and beans, produce better when the amount of daily light and darkness is "just right" for the particular variety. It probably will never be possible for farmers to keep lights in their grain and soy bean fields, but accurate knowledge on how much light and darkness each crop needs will be very profitable for the farmer.

As new types of wheat and other crops are developed, analysis of these needs may revolutionize the quality and the production of our common foods. For if it isn't possible to change the light to suit the crop, the crop can be moved to those places where the days and the nights are just the right length during the growing season.

The result should be more profits for the grower and perhaps cheaper prices for the housewife.

OLD DUCK DECOYS WERE TRUE TO LIFE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Modern duck decoys can't compare with those of a century ago for trueness to life, the Illinois State Museum said Saturday.

Putting on a display of 37 hand-carved and painted decoys owned by Joseph B. French of St. Louis, the museum said they were of a type so life-like that hunters often blew their heads off.

The museum added that to ducks the detailing made little difference and modern models are effective lures.

ROCKET SCENE MOVES WEST—Firing soon of the first ballistic missile from the nearly complete Pacific test center will open a new phase of the nation's missile and space effort. Newsmap above shows the triple purpose of the joint Air Force-Navy program, located at Vandenburg Air Force Base and Point Arguello, about 140 miles north of Los Angeles. Two ranges will be used to train missilemen in test firings: one across the western Pacific for 5,000-mile intercontinental types; another for 1,500-mile and shorter range weapons. A third range, stretching over open water toward the South Pole, will be used for launching satellites in north-south orbits, the only point in the U.S. from which they can be fired in such a direction.

Law, Insurance Offices Open On W. Morgan

Two new offices have been located at 309 West Morgan street, the front section of the former Stubblefield garage.

Leavitt C. Arnold has opened a law office and the Joe Doyle Agency is located there.

The Ideal Baking company recently leased the entire building from Mrs. Myra Perbix. The company will use the rear end for a garage and loading dock and has subleased the north end to Arnold and Doyle.

Attorney Arnold graduated from the Jacksonville High school, Illinois College and Northwestern University law school. He was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1931.

He is a former Jacksonville city attorney and a former member of the law firm of Bellatti, Arnold and Fay. He served in the U. S. Navy for two years. He is also president of the Alexander Furniture company, Alexander, and has extensive agricultural interests.

His son, Clark, is a freshman at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn.

T. Joe Doyle, well known insurance and real estate man, graduated from Routt High school, and from Illinois College in 1938. In 1939 he was employed by J. C. Colton in the making of real estate loans through the Prudential Insurance Co. During World War II he was in the service 55 months. During that time he purchased the John N. Kennedy Insurance Agency office, which was operated by Miss Jean Hoecker while he was away. The office was located in the Professional Building.

In 1948 Colton and Doyle built the Insurance building at 309 West State street.

Doyle takes an active interest in local insurance and real estate associations and serves as mortgage loan solicitor for the Prudential company.

Effective Date On Conservation Pacts April 15

New conservation reserve contracts now being signed by farmers in Morgan County will in general become effective on April 15, 1959, according to Wilbur C. Williams, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

All conservation reserve contracts require that the land included be devoted to grass, trees, or a water or wildlife Conservation Practice. If the Conservation Practice to be used on the designated land is preformed before April 15, the Contract becomes effective at the time the Practice is started.

This means that 1958 crops on land put in the Conservation Reserve this fall can be harvested before the Contract goes into effect. In addition, the land put in the Reserve for the first time this fall may be grazed until the Contract goes into effect.

After the Contract goes into effect the farmer agrees not to graze the land or harvest a crop from it. He also agrees to refrain from harvesting Christmas Trees and ornamentals from Conservation Reserve land on which forest trees have been planted.

Woman Hit By Car Escapes Injury

Mrs. Wilma Ritchie, 419 North Diamond, a pedestrian, escaped injury about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon when she was bumped by a car driven by Ruth E. Hagan, 57, 1725 South Main, on West Court Street at the Public Square.

According to police reports, Mrs. Hagan was traveling west on Court street and had stopped to let another woman cross and upon starting again bumped Mrs. Ritchie who fell to the pavement on her left knee.

Mrs. Ritchie was taken to a doctor's office for examination and released after it was determined that no bones had been sustained.

Patrolman Ernest Smith attended at the scene of the accident.

PIONEER III STARTS PLUNGE TO EARTH

this rocket will indicate changes in the next one.

By midmorning rocket experts here and at Cape Canaveral, Fla., were beginning to suspect that one of the things that went wrong was in the Jupiter IRBM used as the primary launcher. The Army, aiming at giving the rocket greater initial speed, elongated the fuel tanks and changed some of the plumbing.

The idea didn't work entirely as planned. At its top speed, Pioneer III was traveling about 840 miles per hour slower than the 24,900 m.p.h. needed to thrust it beyond earth's full gravity pull and send it to the region of the moon. Even greater speed would have been needed to break the pull of the combined earth-moon gravity and put it into orbit around the sun.

Some other difficulties may have occurred, although the lack of adequate "escape speed" was primary. Pioneer III was more than three degrees off the intended angle in the early stages of its flight.

Down at Cape Canaveral, an Air Force officer pondered the day's events.

"If Wernher von Braun had put his satellite around the sun on the first try, after three Air Force failures to reach the moon, there would have been no living with him," he said.

The doctor was impressive in two news conference appearances in Washington. He answered questions in detail and at length, but if he felt any pleasure or disappointment he concealed it.

Von Braun thought a faulty adjustment on a fuel valve might have shortened the burning time of the first stage. This would have reduced the time of acceleration and thus cut top speed.

In Florida, Von Braun's military counterpart, Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, said the failure to achieve planned velocity was caused primarily by a cutoff in burning of fuel three seconds too soon. At speeds around 24,000 m.p.h., three seconds can make a great difference in acceleration.

The space scientists calculated initially that Pioneer III probably would be in flight—going up and coming down—about 38 hours.

The three upper stages of the launching vehicle, consisting of clusters and individual units of Sergeant solid fuel rockets, apparently behaved as planned. But Pioneer III lacked the initial speed, a deficit which the upper stages couldn't correct.

The speed began dropping off steadily. Within four hours after launching, the probe's velocity was estimated as being down to about 7,800 m.p.h. A few hours later it had dropped to about 3,000 m.p.h.

The scientists thought that as it approached its peak the flight would be slowed to hundreds of miles an hour. Then, as it headed back toward earth, the speed would accelerate.

Bury Fourteen More Victims Of School Fire

flames. He said fire investigators and police arson detectives will talk to every pupil in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades who escaped when the blaze swept the West Side Catholic school.

The fire commissioner said the survivors would be asked who were the pupils who smoked and what procedures were used for dumping wastepaper in the basement.

Quinn also ordered inspection of the city's 650 schools stepped up next week. He said that one of every eight schools already examined disclosed violations of the building or fire department codes.

None of the schools has been ordered closed.

Officials of the First National Bank reported Saturday that money "by the bushel" has been pouring in for the families of victims of the school fire.

Thomas H. Beacon, vice-president of the bank's trust department, said officials have tallied $126,607.87 thus far, but he added:

"The money keeps coming in by the bushel. There is a full day's work here for at least ten people."

Rockets Win Close Tilt From Flashes

FRANKLIN — Bob Winstead's Routt Rockets maintained the lead in the final quarter but had to squelch a last-ditch rally in order to whip Jim Bower's Flashes here Saturday night, 54-51.

It was a nip and tuck game all the way with never more than six points separating the two clubs. Routt saw itself down at halftime, 28-26, but the Rockets overtook Franklin in the third period and held on for their second win in three starts. The loss was Franklin's second in three outings.

The rough and tumble contest was marred by fouls. A total of 46 were charged to the two teams with Franklin carrying the burden of 27 fouls.

John Fitzpatrick and Mickey Walker paced the winners with 13 and 11 points respectively. Bill Tennahill's 13 was high for Franklin.

Jordan Wrestles Welter Crown From Akins

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Don Jordan of Los Angeles, who dethroned Virgil Akins as world welterweight champion in a 15-round upset Friday night, said Saturday he intends to be a busy titleholder.

First he must fulfill a contract to give Akins a return match in the ex-champ's hometown of St. Louis within 60 days.

Jordan appeared to relish the idea of tangling with Akins again.

"I don't care where or when we fight," he said. "I'll beat him again anywhere, anytime."

After that Jordan, 24, would like to fight Joe Brown for the lightweight championship, indicating he prefers the 135-pound division, his natural weight scale.

He also would like a third match with Art Aragon. His two losses to Aragon in 1955 still rankle.

"I want Aragon," said Jordan, "and I'll give him first crack at the title after Akins if he's brave enough to take the chance."

Aragon is California's all-time drawing champion at the gate.

Akins, who blazed his way to the title with knockout over Tony Demarco, Isaac Logart and Vince Martinez, gave Jordan little more than a stiff workout Friday night. The judges' decision in favor of Jordan was unanimous.

To assuage his bruises and pride, Akins Saturday received $26,641.34, his 40 per cent share of the $67,238.05 net from the gate and television. Jordan's 20 per cent amounted to $13,230.67.

A Brown-Lion Win Would Give Cleveland Title

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Browns can win their customary title shot Sunday, but they need an assist from Detroit's lame duck Lions to pull it off. The Browns are at Philadelphia and the Lions entertain New York in the top battles on a five-game NFL card.

The Baltimore Colts, who already had clinched the Western Conference championship, played the Rams at Los Angeles Saturday.

If the Browns whip the Eagles, and the Lions turn back the Giants, the Dec. 28 title game will match the Browns and Colts in Cleveland.

But "the book" says the Eastern Conference winner won't be decided until next Sunday, when New York is host to Cleveland on the final day of the pro season. The Browns are favored by seven points Sunday, and the Giants get the nod by three.

The New York team, however, is the most unpredictable in the game. The Giants on successive Sundays handed the Colts and Browns their first defeats, but lost three other games in which they were favored.

Detroit (4-5-1), already stripped of its Western Conference crown and thereby denied a championship spot, was never in the running in the West. But the Lions are the only team besides the Giants to beat the Browns.

Pittsburgh still has a mathematical chance for the Eastern title. But the Steelers (6-4) have to win both remaining games, including Sunday's at Washington, while the Browns (8-2) dropped two and the Giants (7-3) lost to the Lions, to even tie for the crown.

Other games Sunday are Chicago Cards (2-7-1) at the Chicago Bears (6-4) in an intra-city, interconference rivalry, and Green Bay (1-8-1) at San Francisco (4-6).

Pittsburgh is a three-point favorite, the Bears seven and the 49ers ten.

Macy Retains Cross-Country Running Crown

CHICAGO (AP)—John Macy of Poland, a sophomore at the University of Houston, Saturday retained his National A.A.U. 10,000-meter cross-country running title by covering the distance on the Washington Park course in 29:47.8.

Australian Al Lawrence, a freshman at Houston, was second, approximately 150 yards behind Macy.

Max Treux unattached of Los Angeles, was third. A field of 62 competed in 15-degree weather.

Macy, who won the event over the same course in 31:12 last year, fled Communist Poland in 1954 and stayed in West Germany until coming to this country. He is studying engineering.

New York Athletic Club, New York City, won the team title with 40 points. Second was the Houston Track and Field Club, 62; third, Vancouver, B. C., Olympic Club, 61; fourth, University of Chicago Track Club (A) 104.

ACCEPTS SHRINE BID

The South signed up George Dutrow, a 166-pound halfback who was Duke's top ground gainer during the regular season.

Penn State's unbeaten 1912 football team had only one touchdown scored against it in eight games.

Syracuse has many fine football teams, including the 1958 array, but in 70 years of the sport the Orange never has had an unbeaten team.

MIAMI, Fla.—(NEA)—In case anyone suspects that the reign of Calumet Farm in American racing is due for a lapse, it would be well to read and heed this report from Hialeah Park.

When a horseman like Ben A. Jones says, "I think this is the finest crop of yearlings we've had in many years," you can pretty well figure that Mrs. Gene Markey's stable will be well loaded with racing talent for several years to come.

Plain Ben, who'll be 76 on Dec. 31, schooled the babies at the farm hard by Lexington, Ky., before shipping them to Hialeah to join the older horses trained by Jimmy Jones. Papa Ben saddled six Kentucky Derby winners, Jimmy the last two, Iron Liege and Tim Tam. Keeping up with the Joneses in flat racing is that tough.

Rival strings have had a heck of a time trying to keep up with them for almost two decades, but of late some horsemen have been saying, "Maybe the end's in sight." Tim Tam had to be retired early in June. Kentucky Pride didn't live up to early-season promise. A Glitter is a fickle filly. Bardstown and Fabius are getting old. On and On, which was a highly-regarded two-year-old, failed to win in two starts.

Be that as it may, Calumet is close to the million mark in 1958 earnings. It is headed for national money-winning honors for the 11th time in 18 years. And how about those possible future greats — 18 beautifully-bred homebred yearlings now at Hialeah waiting to come of racing age on New Year's Day?

Five are by Bull Lea, greatest of all sires; three each by Citation, Ponder and Sun Again; two by Mark-Ye-Well; and one each by Helioscope and the broad-backed sprinter, Olympia.

"It's too early to make predictions on what these youngsters might accomplish," says B. A. Jones, "but some of them strike me as quite promising. We're fortunate to have so many by old Bull Lea. They're all good lookers—plenty of body and bone and apparently intelligent."

All except one of the 18 babies have been named—a dark bay colt by Citation-Miss Keeneland. The Bull Leas are four colts out of Ballaroyal, Proud One, Waynoka and Whirlette, the latter a full sister to Whirlaway, and a filly out of Happiness. Their names, in that order, are Rum Punch, Raison, Yorky, Whoop and Dasheen.

Colts most fancied by the veteran Jones are Dictum, by Citation-Blue Delight (dam of the Oaks winners, Princess Turia, Real Delight and Bubbley); Fango, by Ponder-Bubbley; Hillsborough, by Ponder-Good Blood; and the unnamed son of Citation-Miss Keeneland.

Fillies which have caught the elder Jones' eye are Heliolight, by Helioscope-Real Delight; Prince's Gate, by Sun Again-Siena Way; and Desert Dream, by Olympia-Peace of Mind. Heliolight is the first foal of Real Delight, the champion filly of 1952 with 10 victories in 11 outings. Siena Way is a full sister to Citation.

Rounding out the 18 are the colts, Yardarm Sun, by Citation-Duchess Peg; Mark-One, by Mark-Ye-Well-Liberty Lady; Mizzoo, by Sun Again-Maud Lea; and the fillies, Sun Glint, by Sun Again-Diamond Tear; Cino-A-Sept, by Mark-Ye-Well-Flying Rhythm; and Queensway, by Ponder-Just Nell.

Where many big stables purchase much of their racing stock, Calumet champions are strictly home products, and this newest crop seems to be in keeping with the fabulous farm's tradition.

Big 10 To Hold A Sort Of Looking Ahead Session At Meeting

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten will hold a sort of looking ahead — far ahead — session when it gathers for its annual winter meeting next week.

The Rose Bowl series, now facing a 1960 reshuffling, and a potential round - robin conference football schedule by 1969 will be discussed at the conclave, Wednesday through Saturday.

With the demise of the Pacific Coast Conference next July 1, the present Rose Bowl contract extends only through the 1960 Pasadena classic.

It's entirely possible, however, such sturdy ex-PCC members as California, UCLA, Southern California, Washington and possibly Stanford may band in a new conference.

That conceivably would preserve the Rose Bowl series and the Big Ten would prefer it to continue under the present contract, with necessary amendments, rather than require complete re-negotiations.

A new contract would mean Bib Ten faculty representatives would have to mull over the whole idea of post-season football play which is not cherished by some conference schools.

Each time the Rose Bowl subject required a vote since the series' inception in 1947, a bare majority favorable vote has prevailed in the Big Ten. Some schools switched attitudes over that span, but a firm minority always prevailed.

Next week, the Big Ten is expected to announce, at least, that it will be represented in the 1960 game and perhaps hint that if a reasonable facsimile of the PCC is born, the series could be continued after that.

Iowa, the Big Ten champion, and California, PCC titlist, face in the 1959 Rose Bowl game.

The two main items on the official agenda in the Big Ten winter session actually were approved tentatively at last May's conference spring meeting.

One is a long mulled proposal for a 10-game football schedule. If given final approval, this would result by 1969 in a full round-robin schedule of conference games. The 10-game schedule, however, would be effective in 1965. At present, each Big Ten school plays a maximum over-all schedule of nine games and between 6 and 7 conference tilts.

The other item up for final action is a recruiting change which would permit coaches to visit prospective athletes off the campus and authorize schools to pay campus visit expenses for a prospective athlete.

Dean Robert B. Browne of Illinois will be installed as chairman of the faculty group, succeeding Dr. T. Leroy Martin of Northwestern, and Iowa's Paul Brechler succeeds Indiana's Frank Allen as chairman of the athletic directors.

Warriors Suffer Loss At St. Louis

The I.B.S.S.S. Warriors suffered defeat at the hands of their conference foes from Missouri and Iowa. In the three-way wrestling meet held in St. Louis the local grapplers managed only to capture one second place while the host school took all top honors.

Nick Weems, of Jacksonville, was the only I.B.S.S.S. winner while Norm Bolton of the local team gained a victory in an exhibition match over his Missouri opponent.

Next outing for the Warriors will be Wednesday, Dec. 10, at Feitshans of Springfield.

MacKay, Olmedo Advance In Victorian Meet

MELBOURNE (AP) — Big Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Alex Olmedo of Los Angeles battled into the quarter-finals of the Victorian Tennis Championships Saturday.

Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, hampered by a pulled thigh muscle, lost to Australia's Neale Fraser 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, and the fourth American entry, Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., was eliminated by Aussie Ashley Cooper, the world's top amateur, 3-6, 6-0, 6-1, 6-3.

MacKay, bringing his powerful game toward its peak for the approaching Davis Cup tests, whipped Australia's Bob Howe 6-4, 6-4, 13-11. Olemedo, the Peruvian from the University of Southern California, rallied briskly to down another Aussie, Warren Woodcock, 5-7, 6-8, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

In next Tuesday's quarter - finals, MacKay meets Spain's Andres Gimeno, who upset Australian Roy Emerson 7-5, 6-2, 6-3 Saturday. Olmedo faces former U.S. champion and Australia's No. 2 Davis Cupper, Mal Anderson. Anderson eliminated Neale Fraser's younger brother, Jack, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1.

Row Layer of Australia advanced with a 6-4, 5-7, 8-6, 7-5 decision over Ulf Schmidt of Sweden, the No. 1 foreign seed.

U. S. Davis Cup Captain Perry Jones prepping the team for the interzone finals against the Italy-Philippines winner at Perth Dec. 19-21, was in a happy mood after the day's play.

"That's just what Barry wanted. He can now really build into the right frame of mind," he said of MacKay, who had to fight off four set points against him before winning the third set. "He needed to get a good test and he handled it well."

Jones also praised Olmedo and Buchholz.

"I must get Alex into the center court after this," he said of Olmedo. "Looks as if he must have a crowd around him."

"I was very pleased with Buchholz' game," the team captain continued. "After all, Fraser must be recognized as the No. 3 player in the world and our boy learned a lot."

Buchholz refused to use his thigh injury as an alibi. "Take nothing away from Fraser," he said. "He played like a real champ and there was nothing I could do about it."

Senators Swap Players With Detroit Tigers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Senators Saturday traded veteran third baseman Eddie Yost, shortstop Rocky Bridges and outfielder Neil Chrisley to the Detroit Tigers for infielders Reno Bertoia and Ron Samford and centerfielder Jim Delsing.

Calvin Griffith, president of the Senators, announced the deal after long conferences with the Tigers that began during the major league baseball meeting here this week.

Yost has spent his entire baseball career with the Senators.

The 32-year-old third baseman came to Washington in 1944 and has remained with the Senators ever since, except for two war years in the Navy.

Frequently mentioned as trade material in the last few years as he grew older, Yost stayed on and was captain of the club as well as chief player representative of the American League in dealing with club owners.

Bertoia, who will replace Yost in the Washington infield, is nine years younger.

Neither player hit well last season. Yost averaged .224 and Bertoia .233.

Bridges was acquired from Cincinnati during the 1957 season. He and Chrisley played with Washington last season. Samford and Delsing were with Charleston, W. Va., in the American Assn. Both have knocked around in the majors in previous seasons.

Bridges, 31-year-old spark plug of the Senators' infield, batted .263 in 1958. Shortstop Samford, 26, led his team in hitting with .301 as Charleston won the American Association pennant.

Delsing was Charleston's second best hitter with a .287 average. The 33-year-old centerfielder, exchanged for the 26-year-old Chrisley, advanced to the majors with the Chicago White Sox in 1948. He shifted to the New York Yankees, the old St. Louis Browns, the Tigers and back to the White Sox before going to Indianapolis in the American Assn. in 1957.

Chrisley batted .215 in 105 games with the Senators. He has been Washington property since 1955. The 6-foot-2 outfield spent most of 1957 with Indianapolis, where he finished second in batting in the American Assn.

Bridges, whose tobocco chaw is almost as well known as that of Nelli Fox of Chicago, has been in organized baseball since 1947 he came up to the majors from Montreal to Brooklyn in 1951 and went to Cincinnati in 1953.

Assistant football coaches Sonny Grandelius and Carl Nystrom of Michigan State formerly starred in football for the Spartans.

New Berlin Collects Easy Win From Tigers

NEW BERLIN — A red hot shooting New Berlin five racked up 44 points in the first half and went on to down the visiting ISD Tigers 82 to 63. This was the second loss in two nights for Coach Jim Spink's Tigers to go with 3 wins.

Coach Bill Hovey had four men break into double figures with Bond leading the scoring parade with 18 markers. A. C. Parish led the Tigers with 27 points to take individual honors for the night. New Berlin's fast break offense proved effective as they ran up a season's high of 82 points.

ISD trailed at half time 44 to 27 and although they tallied 63 points they could not catch up with the high powered offense of the Pretzels.

Miami Pulls Off 2-0 Upset Over Oregon In Final

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami pulled off a 2-0 upset over Oregon Saturday as college football finally put the wraps on regular season play that should never have begun as far as the Hurricanes were concerned.

Little Fran Curci's first punt of the year rolled dead on the Oregon one in the third period. Two plays later Bill Poole and Dan Coughlan smashed through and dropped Oregon's Dave Grosz in the end zone for the winning safety. That, plus a number of bad breaks that frustrated Oregon all afternoon, put an end to Miami's losing slump at seven games.

Miami finished with a 2-8 record, barely bettering the Hurricanes' worst record ever, 1-7-1 in 1944. Oregon, twice denied touchdowns because of penalties, finished with a 4-6 record although giving up only 50 points in the 10 games.

Boston College ripped Holy Cross 28-8, with sophomore quarterback John Amabile scoring one TD and passing for another, in a game televised to New England and Mid-Atlantic states while the Miami-Oregon game was beamed to the rest of the nation.

Arizona State at Flagstaff and Northeastern Oklahoma remained unbeaten as they qualified for the NAIA's Holiday Bowl at St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 20.

Arizona State chalked up its 11th victory with a 41-12 decision over Gustavus Adolphus at Tucson. And Northeastern staved off a fourth-period rally by St. Benedict's for a 19-14 decision at Tulsa, Okla., and its 10th triumph.

Southwest Teams Compile Highest Pass Statistics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember when Southwest college teams threw the ball so often they were accused of taking the foot out of football? Well, they're back again.

For the first time in 20 years the Southwest has come up with the major college individual pass throwing and pass receiving champions, final NCAA Service Bureau statistics revealed Saturday. They are Buddy Humphrey of Baylor in passing, and stubby (5-9, 160 pound) Dave Hibbert of Arizona in receiving.

With a couple of finishing flourishes, Humphrey overtook Arizona's Rooh Hunsaker and won the tossing title with 112 pass completions for the season, and Hibbert made a record number of 61 receptions.

In his final game, a 21-33 loss to Rice, Humphrey completed 22 of 37 passes for 387 yards. That gave him the season's high of 195 attempts. Only one major college player ever passed for more yardage in one game. Ted Marchibroda gained 390 for Detroit against Tulsa in 1952.

Hibbert, twice a junior college all-star quarterback at Phoenix J.C. before entering Arizona last fall, caught 12 passes in his last game. The 61 total broke the major college record of 57 set by Fordham's Ed Brown in 1952.

Somehow such teams as Iowa, Navy, Army, Illinois, Rutgers and Idaho managed to invade the Southwest's domain and capture minor statistical titles in the passing area.

Iowa's Randy Duncan, No. 3 on the completion list with 101 (Hunsaker completed 106) took two titles and shared another. Duncan's .587 completion average was best and so was his total of 1,347 air yards. His 11 touchdown passes tied Joe Tranchini of Navy, Rich Mayor of the Air Force and Jack Cummings of North Carolina for the title.

Only two of Tranchini's 117 passes were intercepted. Army's Joe Caldwell took long passing honors, averaging 20.3 yards on his 41 completions.

He had considerable help there from Pete Dawkins, who averaged 20.9 yards on each of his 16 receptions.

The receiving distance champion and new record holder, however, was Rich Kreitling of Illinois because the minimum was set at 20 catches. He averaged 20.9 yards on 23 receptions, compared to the old mark of 20.6 by Ellery Williams of Santa Clara in 1946.

John Hangartner of Arizona State made the best mark on yards per attempt—10 yards even on 121 tosses. Bob Simms of Rutgers and Don Black of New Mexico caught nine touchdown passes each and Idaho's Jim Norton intercepted nine and ran them back 222 yards.

PROGRESSION GOLF

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A group of officials of the Virginia State Golf Assn., here for a meeting, had a round on the links first. Bob Scott, chairman of the handicap committee, scored a hole-in-one on the 196-yard 17th at the Country Club of Virginia. Let's make it one, two, three, four said Richmond's Harry Easterly and promptly placed one near the pin for an easy deuce. Jose Davila made the green and was George Fulton's drive was bad down in two putts for his three, but he was down in four.

North Chicago Halts Elgin's Win Streak

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Few chinks showed up in the armor of the favored Illinois high school basketball teams Friday, excepting Elgin.

Weighty performances by acknowledged favorites like West Rockford, Centralia and Hinsdale stretched their unbeaten records to two-three-and four - a - game skeins respectively.

North Chicago halted Elgin's streak at three wins with a 50-45 score. West Aurora won its third in a row, with Batavia falling short 61-58.

West Rockford's 68-45 verdict against a big and fast Rock Island team that had already won two made West look more powerful in the northern Illinois scramble. East Rockford whipped Moline 50-43.

Centralia's 74-62 reversal of Mount Vernon and Harrisburg's 81 - 56 defeat of Marion shook down a South Seven race where the four teams stood unbeaten. All had won two except Mount Vernon, three times successful. Herrin smashed Murphysboro 71-44.

Lengthening one of the longest consecutive victory lists in the new season, Hinsdale won its fourth game, defeating Downers Grove 60-41. Evanston triumphed a third time, stopping New Trier 58-50. Proviso of Maywood tripped Waukegan 41-35.

Easily picking up its fifth straight success, Princeton counted 59 against Mendota's 35.

In the mid-state area, Peoria Central spoiled Pekin's bow and Peoria Limestone slipped past Peoria Spalding 44-39.

Big 12 fans saw the favorite, Springfield, nick Champaign for its third win 44-36 while persistent Stephen Decatur rolled over Urbana 66-44.

The 1958-59 state title runner-up, Rock Falls, continued to show good form, clouting Kewanee, 60-43. Ottawa's third win, 66-61, was DeKalb's first defeat in two games. Streator clouted Geneseo 61-32.

An overtime was required by East St. Louis to fashion a 72-68 margin over Decatur Eisenhower. Wood River, another southwestern comer, took a 59-56 game from Bethalto.

Rantoul continued to win with ease batting Oakwood 77-59.

In eastern Illinois, Cumberland pulled a 62-61 game away from Newton. Cumberland thus started its bid for an eighth straight eastern Illinois title. Paris and Casey also won.

Taylorville continued to rebound after its opening game loss to Jacksonville, hitting Greenville 58-49. Pinckneyville sharpened up on Quincy 82-56. McLeansboro barely stopped Carmi 51-50 while Albion downed Fairfield 64-60.

Concordia Of St. Louis Downs I.C. 61-54

The Illinois College "Blueboys," coached by Bill Merris dropped their second game of the season here Friday night at Memorial Gym to Concordia college of St. Louis by a score of 61 to 54. Concordia, coached by Eldon E. Pederso, took the lead from the very beginning and managed to hold it throughout the entire game. The fighting Blueboys did manage to come within four points several times during the game but could do no better.

A local boy and a standout in football was Freshman Mike Scott as he played a great shooting game to lead the Blueboy "five" with eight baskets and five free throws for high score of 21 points. Mike really went wild in the third period as he chalked up nine points within a matter of minutes. IC was handicapped with the loss of letterman Larry Brown who missed action with Concordia because of a knee injury. Every one on the Hilltop campus hopes he will be ready to go in the next game.

The first half of play found Concordia hitting the basket very well. They connected on 13 out of 25 for a 52% average. Illinois College, taking six more shots than Concordia, could connect on only 8 out of 32 for a 25% first half average. The first half ended with Concordia holding a ten point lead, 32 to 22.

Starting the second period found center Carl Moore and Mike Scott making two quick baskets and a free throw to narrow that ten point half time margin to 28 to 33. With 12 minutes remaining, forward Jim Wallace hit a two pointer to bring IC within four points making the score 40 to 44. Concordia's Dave Ludwig and Dennis Hartman came right back with two baskets and a free toss to put their team out of immediate danger. IC never let down, however, as Neal Hart drove in for four points tallying the score 45 to 49. But as the game progressed the ball hawking and rebounding of Concordia paid off as they went on to win the game 61 to 54.

Ludwig and Hartman were the big guns for Concordia as they scored 24 and 20 points, respectively. Scott and Dick Hoke dialed 21 and 10 points for the losing cause of Illinois College.

IC will travel to McKendree on December 8 for its next game. The next home game will be December 16 with Carthage.

Sophomore Larry Siegfried was top scorer for Ohio State with 18 points.

The Billikens, hitting 19 of 38 shots from the field in the first half, pulled away to a 41-35 lead at halftime after Ohio State tied the score at 31-31.

Mankowski broke the 31-all tie with a drive in basket and added a set shot and Pete McCaffrey tossed in a one-hander that gave St. Louis a 37-31 advantage. The Buckeyes never seriously threatened after that.

Purdue Crushes Missouri, 65-57

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers battled their way out of numerous tie scores for a 65-57 victory over Missouri Saturday night in one of the roughest basketball games ever played in Brewer Field House.

Early in the game officials warned Missouri coach Sparky Stalcup away from the sidelines and in the last minute chased Purdue coach Ray Eddy off the floor.

Willie Merriweather of Purdue, was the leading scorer with 20 points. Bud Harbin was high for Missouri with 13.

The Missouri Tigers, mostly sophomores, gave the Boilermakers a stiffer battle than expected. The Tigers trailed by one and two points early in the game and seldom were more than six points behind after the first 10 minutes.

GRAULEY, INQUIRER SPORTS EDITOR, DIES

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — S. O. (Sog) Grauley, 80, sports editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer since 1925 and a beloved personality in the newspaper world for 61 years, died Saturday in his north Philadelphia home.

Grauley joined the Inquirer after he completed his studies at Temple University in 1897. The man who hired him took a look at his name, Stephen Orlando, and told him, "your name is Sog from now on."

In 1950, when the Associated Press conducted a poll to determine the greatest teams of the half century, Grauley was the only sports editor in the country who had covered games from the beginning of the span.

The word "restaurant" first was used for a Paris eating place established in 1765.

Germany ranked second as a producer of iron and steel products before World War II.

England's Radio Telescope Ready To Track Rocket

JODRELL BANK, England (AP)—The world's biggest radio telescope was believed back in good repair Saturday night after a breakdown which stopped it while tracking the U. S. Army's Pioneer III moon shot earlier in the day.

"With any luck we should now be able to get a fix on the rocket early tomorrow when it rises above the horizon," one scientist said.

British and American astronomers had spent hours clambering hundreds of feet over the latticed girders of the huge telescope before finding a faulty amplifying device on its radio antenna. They worked nonstop to put it right in time to start tracking Pioneer III Sunday.

"I don't plan to sing any more in France," the 70-year-old actor-singer told reporters at the airport. "In the United States I have begun a new career as comedian, specializing in roles of father and uncle. Such jobs are pleasant because among other things they help me get acquainted with pretty daughters and nieces."

Fighting Illini Bow To Marquette, 69-53

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Marquette employed its firehouse basketball offense again Saturday night and subdued Illinois 69-53 for the first time in eight tries with the help of a 26-point outburst by Jim McCoy.

An Arena crowd of 9,280 watched the fast - breaking Warriors knock off their second Big Ten opponent in as many starts. In their opener Tuesday the Warriors bowled over Wisconsin 76-47.

Marquette moved into the lead for good with only three minutes 40 seconds gone on big Mike Moran's one-hander from the side. It gave Marquette a 6-4 lead. From then on the Warriors widened the gap steadily until, with about a minute to go in the first half, they held a 17-point bulge, 40-23.

The Warriors left the floor with a 43-29 halftime lead, fell off slightly as the second half got under way and then won going away as McCoy and Walt Mangham took the starch out of the Illini with deadly jump shots.

The Illini, operating without high - scoring Govoner Vaughn who was out with an ankle sprain, was unable to unleash its own vaunted fast break attack — simply because the taller Warriors controlled the ball and continually intercepted passes. Al Gosnell led Illinois with 11 points.

This marked the first time since the 1938-39 season that Marquette has been able to defeat two Big Ten teams in the same campaign. That season the Warriors beat Michigan then bumped off Wisconsin twice. Illinois, in its opener, defeated Butler 103-79.

Top Female Skeet Shooter Gets Her Limit

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The duck or pheasant beautiful Mrs. Carola Mandel draws a bead on is a goner.

Mrs. Mandel is the world's best female skeet shooter and hunting birds is the way she keeps her eye sharp and little hand steady between skeet seasons.

"I get my limit most of the time," she said in an interview.

Mrs. Mandel was the only woman who earned the right to shoot in the World Skeet Championship in Moscow last August. She hit 93 per cent and finished better than two of the four-man U.S. team, as she shot independently.

Earlier in the year, this flashing-eyed native of Havana, Cuba, won the European women's championship in Torino, Italy. This is the closest to world competition for gal gunners because a minimum of five countries must compete.

Mrs. Mandel has just about run out of skeet worlds to conquer. So next year, she may make her first try at the U.S. Women's (and probably men's) trap title with an eye on Olympic trap shooting.

The wife of department store magnate, Leon Mandel, it's difficult to believe this 5 feet 5, 118-pound woman is the peer of the best men skeet shooters anywhere. But the fact is, she has exhausted space in the Mandel's swank apartment for all the trophies she has won.

In 1956, her last American competitive season, Mrs. Mandel was the first woman to lead all men or women in U.S. skeet shooting.

"It gives me great pride to be able to shoot with men," said Mrs. Mandel, "but I never, never expect to be superior to the best of them. In any form of athletics, men naturally will be superior to women, and that's as it should be."

With almost a seven-month layoff beteen skeet seasons, Mrs. Mandel hunts birds frequently with her sportsman husband, who introduced her to the shooting game 10 years ago.

Besides ducks and pheasants, the world-traveling Mandels hunt grouse, wild turkey and other game birds.

Mrs. Mandel is proud of her shooting skill, but an incident in Moscow revealed her true femininity.

While she was blazing away as well as all the men in the World Skeet shoot, the coach of the Russian team watched admiringly and then said:

"You are truly a great shooter, but you should be a ballet dancer."

As she recounted this, Mrs. Mandel smiled demurely and said: "This was the greatest compliment a woman can be paid in Russia."

Pacifists Driven Out Of British Missile Base

SWAFFHAM, England (AP)—A band of pacifists swarmed into a secret missile base Saturday but were driven out by British police in a battle around a concrete mixer.

Women were seized by the hair and shoved into a ditch. The men were pushed from the site by squads of civil and Royal Air Force police.

The incident started as a so-called nonviolent demonstration against the base at nearby North Pickenham. The RAF is setting up a base there to install American-supplied Thor missiles.

The demonstration was organized by a body known as the Direct Action Committee Against Nuclear War. It came a few hours after the Communist Daily Worker carried a story pinpointing a number of missile bases being built along the east coast of England.

The demonstrators rode up from London in buses and marched off to the North Pickenham base.

An advance guard of about 50 men and women tossed planks over a barbed wire barricade and tramped across.

Lou Campi Increases Lead In Bowl Meet

CHICAGO (AP)—Lou Campi of Dumont, N.J., increased his lead to 54 pins Saturday as 64 of the 128 male competitors finished their first 18 games in the qualifying rounds of the second annual World's Invitational Tournament in the Chicago Coliseum.

Campi, a 52-year-old mason contractor who defies all rules of bowling by finishing on his right foot, rolled a 1,247 series to give him 3,820 pins for the first 18 games.

Veteran Church Hamilton of Highland, Ind., took over second behind Campi, rolling the best series of the day — 1,282 — for a total of 3,766.

J.B. Solomon of Dallas, Tex., with a meager 1,183 dropped back to third with a total 3,755 while 18-year-old Dennis Chapis of St. Louis, the youngest bowler in the field, took fourth with a 3,745.

The men are shooting for 15 places in the finals which run from Tuesday through Friday. Defending champion Don Carter of St. Louis, exempt from qualifying, is seeded into the finals. He was fourth after 12 games.

In the women's division, with 32 of the 64 women finished with their first 12 games, Merle Matthews of Long Beach, Calif., who won the 1957-58 all-star title in Minneapolis last January, took over the lead with a total of 2,494.

Right behind her were Ann Setlock of Detroit with a 2,309 total and Bev Bowman of Chicago with 2,307. However, the leader last night, Jere Price of Fort Worth, Tex., still was to shoot.

The 64 women also are aiming for 15 spots in the Tuesday Friday finals along with defending champion Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., who is seeded.

The bowlers are shooting for a total prize fund of $30,000 with $5,000 going to the men's winner and $2,500 to the top women after next Friday's bowling.

Has No Regrets Over His Election Defeat: Knowland

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif), left the capital Saturday saying he has no regrets over his only election defeat in 25 years of politics.

"In this game two things can happen to you," the retiring Senate Republican leader said in an interview.

"You either win or lose. This time I lost for the first time. It's part of the American system. It keeps both parties on their toes.

"It's a good thing to have new faces in government if we get out a representative vote of the people to do it."

Looking ahead to 1960 when the presidency will be at stake, Knowland said, "There is no reason for a party to throw in the sponge just because you take a defeat," as the GOP did in last month's congressional elections.

"I don't believe we have to take a defeatist attitude for 1960," he continued.

"It's a real challenge to Republican party leaders and members everywhere."

Appearing relaxed despite his strenuous and unsuccessful campaign for governor of California, Knowland came back to Washington on a freight vessel by way of the Panama Canal to New York City.

"It took 15 days and was just what I wanted," he said with a grin. "Nobody can reach you on a freighter and there is little to do but rest, read, think and get some sunshine."

Mrs. Pearl Flinn Dies Saturday

Gophers Nudge Vanderbilt, 77-76

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Stymied with three points in the first half, scoring ace Ron Johnson broke loose down the stretch for a 23-point performance that carried Minnesota to a 77-76 basketball victory over ball-hawking Vanderbilt Saturday night.

Trailing by five points with 15 seconds left, Vandy nearly caught the Gophers when Jim Henry and Larry Banks hit field goals in a chaotic finish. Banks' came with two seconds left.

The game opened Minnesota's season. Vanderbilt lost its first after a victory over Sewanee.

Vanderbilt's alertness and proficiency from the foul line kept the Commodores in front throughout most of first half.

Two fast baskets by Johnson thrust the Gophers into a 38-33 lead early in the second half, and the Minnesotans stayed in front most of the way thereafter.

MILE IN NOTHING FLAT TOO FAST FOR CAB DRIVER

BERLIN, N. H. (AP)—Perhaps she never heard of two-way cab radio?

Albert Roy says this happened Friday night in a heavy snowstorm:

He delivered a passenger to an address about a mile from his taxi stand.

As he started to return he received a radio message to pick up a fare just across the street.

He knocked on the door.

"You send for a cab lady?"

"Yes—but I'm not going to ride with you on a night like this. I just hung up the phone. You drive too fast."

Rams Gain Sweet Revenge From Baltimore, 30-28

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams got sweet revenge Saturday—if small consolation. A whopping crowd of 100,202 joined in the celebration as the home heroes defeated the Baltimore Colts, 30-28, in Memorial Coliseum.

The Los Angeles Rams moved into undisputed possession of second place in the Western Conference Saturday with a 30-28 victory over the Baltimore Colts, who already had clinched the conference title. Johnny Unitas, Colt quarterback, set a league record when he passed for one or more touchdowns in his 24th straight game.

Actually the game meant nothing because the Colts had already sewed up the Western division title in the National Football League and the best the Rams could hope for was to break a second-place tie with the Chicago Bears.

Two weeks ago the Colts wrecked any chance the Rams had for the title.

Left end Del Shofner turned in two brilliant runs on passes from Billy Wade, one for 63 yards that set up the first Los Angeles touchdown. The other was a spectacular 69-yard romp for a touchdown that ended the Rams' scoring.

Johnny Unitas, Baltimore's great quarterback, broke a NFL record for consecutive game touchdown passes, and completed 23 of 38 throws for 214 yards and three touchdowns.

He went into the game with only four interceptions against him all season but the Rams intercepted three and returned two for touchdowns.

Linebacker Dick Daugherty grabbed one Unitas toss that was blocked and barged 12 yards. Defensive halfback Jack Morris stole another and raced 44 yards down the side line in front of the Baltimore bench for the other TD.

The Colts' Gino Marchetti recovered a Wade fumble on the Ram 29 and Unitas soon hit end Ray Berry from three yards out for their first touchdown.

Before the first quarter ended Unitas steered his team 62 yards in 12 plays and his five-yard throw to Lenny Moore produced another touchdown.

The final Unitas scoring pass rifled 22 yards to Jim Mutscheller in the closing minutes of the game. It served to keep most of the big crowd in the stands for the airtight finish.

FINE DRUGGISTS

NEW YORK (AP)—Two Long Island pharmacists Friday were fined $1,500 each for substituting aspirin or other inexpensive tablets for expensive antibiotics prescribed for patients by physicians.

U.S. Dist. Judge Leo F. Rayfield also put the two druggists, Charles P. Greenberg, 30, and Marvin V. Goldstein, 29, on probation for three years. They operated a store in Bethpage, N.Y.

The judge said the pair had put lust for "money ahead of the health and welfare of the community." He called this a "most reprehensible and heinous crime."

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS
Journal-Courier Sports Editor

Jacksonville High's four-team tournament next Friday and Saturday nights should give the fans some top-flight basketball. Joe Lucco's Edwardsville Tigers encounter Herman Edwards' fine aggregation from Maroa at 7 p.m. in the opening tussle Friday and then Jacksonville takes on Highland at 8:30 p.m.

— o —

The two losers play at 7 p.m. Saturday night and the two winners battle it out for the championship at 8:30 p.m. Season tickets won't be honored. It's a tossup as to which team will capture the first place award. John Chapman's Crimsons will be rugged on the home court but the week-long lay off could hurt them.

— o —

The tourney will give Crimson followers a chance to see some of the teams represented in the 'Elite Eight' playoffs at Champaign for the past couple of seasons. Edwardsville was a runner-up to West Rockford in '56 and last year Highland placed fourth in the state meet. Two years ago, Maroa was a member of the top 16 clubs in the state and the Trojans are a team to be reckoned with.

— o —

Joe Lucco, who has been coaching for 24 seasons, 14 of them at Edwardsville, had the distinction of having three of his boys on the first five at the University of Illinois last year. They were Don Ohl, Mannie Jackson and Govoner Vaughn. The Tigers have won from Highland, 72-31, and lost to a fine Centralia club, 66-58, so far this year. Last year, Edwardsville won 20 and lost 10. They shaded JHS by a single tally to win their own four-team tourney. Lucco's lineup will find Gene Vallino, 6-4, and Tony Penelton, 6-1, at forwards; Walter Guller, 6-3, at center; and Myron Schumacher, 5-11, and Ronnie Highlander, 5-11, at the guard posts.

Maroa, a member of the Cenois Conference, has gained wins from Bethany, 81-62, and Lovington, 74-33, this season. The Trojans played Argenta Saturday night and face Mt. Zion Tuesday night before the playoffs. They had a very respectable mark last year, winning 24 and losing only four. Four of the starters are returning lettermen. They are Gary McClung, 6-3; Larry James, 6-3; Curt Wilson, 6-1, and Phil Odle, 5-10. The fifth member is Roger Lewis, a junior standing at 5-8. Odle and Wilson, a guard and forward, respectively, are the team's top out-shooters. McClung and James are Maroa's board men.

Back in 1955 while I was serving as an umpire in a pro league, I ran across a picture in the lobby of a hotel in Lafayette, Ind. The picture layout was of Purdue squads in all sports which had won Big 10 championships. One in particular caught my fancy because I knew one of the players pictured in a basketball uniform. It was John Chapman. Just recently we released a story on Northwestern and Purdue being co-favored for the Big 10 basketball championship this season. To make a long story short, I asked John when was the last time Purdue won a Big Ten basketball title? You guessed right—it was back in 1940 when John was playing his final year as a guard for the Boilermakers.

By way of the grapevine, I have learned that the JHS basketball players recently paid a visit to Santa Claus in Central Park. It seems they don't care if they don't get anything for Christmas morning. They want their present in March, however, and that being a trip to Champaign to play in the state tournament. That's a pretty big order BOYS!

Wildcats Bounce Back To Nip Maryland

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern blew a three-point halftime lead Saturday night and then roared back to defeat Maryland 66-62 for its second straight basketball triumph.

A 23-point splurge by Joe Ruklick helped Northwestern pin the Atlantic Coast Conference champions with their second setback of the season.

Northwestern raced to an early 7-0 lead only to have the Terrapins score eight straight points for an 8-7 lead. The two teams were tied five times before Ruklick put the Wildcats ahead and helped them carve a 31-28 halftime lead.

A pair of baskets by Jerry Bechtle and another by Charlie McNeil hoisted Maryland to a 34-33 lead early in the second half. Northwestern tied it only to have Maryland go in front 41-35 on baskets by Gene Danko, McNeil and Bechtle.

Northwestern kept pecking away and moved into a 49-49 tie. Two free throws by Ruklick put the Wildcats ahead to stay. Northwestern upped its lead to 65-52 before Maryland's final effort which fell short.

Spartans Rout Detroit, 88-51

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A runaway scoring spurt in the first half started Michigan State on its way to an 88-51 basketball victory over the University of Detroit Saturday night.

The Spartans, who had the game under control all the way, raced to a 51-25 lead at the half in their season's opener.

Michigan State ended in a tie for second with Purdue in the Big Ten last season.

John Green, a 6 feet 5 jumping jack, controlled the backboards for State although Detroit put in Pete Corbett, 7 feet even, and Dick Dylus, 6 feet 8, against him.

MSU showed well balanced scoring. Bob Anderegg was tops with 20 points.

Horace Walker had 17 points and Green and Tom Rand made 14 each.

John Belohlavek was high for Detroit with 15 points.

LSU REWARDS COACH DIETZEL

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana State Saturday rewarded Coach Paul Dietzel with a new $16,500, five-year contract for winning the national football crown and a Sugar Bowl invitation.

The LSU board acted unanimously, almost as its first order of business and without debate in giving Dietzel a $2,500 raise.

President Troy H. Middleton said Dietzel, now in New York City for honors, "informed me he would sign it and was very happy to serve at LSU."

The undefeated and untied Tigers, actually a 33-man first team which Dietzel labels "the finest squad I've ever seen," meets Clemson in the Sugar classic at New Orleans Jan. 1.

'Mail Early' Plea Of Postmaster Phil Day; Expect Huge Volume

Now that we're heading directly into the Christmas mail rush, Postmaster Phillip Day put his "Mail Early For Christmas" Campaign into high gear Saturday.

The Postmaster said, "We're ready for an all time record Christmas mail this year. Every facility of the Post Office is being expanded to render maximum service. Extra trucks and personnel have been added, and special mailing schedules will be set up to insure prompt handling of the tremendous flood of both incoming and outgoing mail."

"However," Postmaster Day continued, "the vast volume of Christmas mail is only part of our problem. Names and addresses are often carelessly written, many packages are poorly wrapped or have insufficient postage on them. These oversights result in delays and disappointments, most of which can be avoided if everyone will follow these simple requirements.

Instructions For Mailing

Be sure your Christmas card and gift mailing lists are up-to-date.

Wrap your Christmas gifts securely.

Address your cards and gifts correctly.

Use complete addresses—including street number, rural route or post office box number. Be sure that the name of the street is complete with avenue, parkway, or drive. Avoid abbreviation of street and state names. Use zone numbers wherever possible, and be sure to include your own zone number in your return address.

And most important of all—mail your cards and gifts within the next few days!"

Delivery of your Christmas cards will be greatly expedited if you will bundle them with "local" or "out of town" bands which are available free at the Post Office.

Flow Of Cards Begins

The Postmaster reports that the present flow of Christmas cards is running about the same as last year, but the mailing of gifts by Parcel Post is somewhat behind schedule. He mentioned that you con enclose your Christmas card or letter in your gift package merely by adding the appropriate letter postage to the postage for the package itself and indicating the presence of a letter or Christmas card inside the package. Always include an extra label inside your gift packages.

Try to bring your parcels to the postal windows before 10:00 a.m. or between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. to avoid the noon hour rush.

Send Cards First Class

The Postmaster also suggests that you send all your Christmas cards by First Class mail, thus insuring forwarding service if the addressee has moved, or the card will be returned to you if the recipient cannot be located. Then, too, on Christmas cards sent by First Class mail you can include handwritten messages to make your greetings more personal.

"Do it now!" is the slogan for the "Mail Early For Christmas" Campaign from now on. If you'll mail your out of town Christmas cards and packages immediately, Post Office employees can look forward to spending Christmas Eve and Christmas Day with their families.

Christmas mail for local addresses should be started on its way at least a week before Christmas.

Winchester Santa Forced To Use Car By Lack Of Snow

by Nancy Hainsfurther
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone Pioneer 2-5520)

WINCHESTER — Santa Claus arrived at his Winchester home on the Public Square Saturday afternoon, after a ride down North Main Street direct from the North Pole in a Chevrolet Corvette. Santa explained to his many friends who greeted him that because of no snow he had to leave his sleigh and reindeer home but will try to use them when he visits each of their homes on Christmas Eve.

Santa arrived in a square well decorated for his visit. Red bells hung across the street amidst strings of lights and in front of each business establishment small Christmas trees with gaily lit lights added to the festive air.

In the Christmas plans being made throughout the city are the plans for the annual house lighting contest. Entries are to be in to Harry Lair, president of the Chamber of Commerce, not later than Dec. 20 to be judged by members of the Christmas Decorating Committee on the 21st. Members of that committee which is responsible for the street decorations and plans for the lighting contest are Bill Hubbert, Andy Sauer, Denton Coonrod, George Sipes, George Roosa, Merle Helliwell, and the chairman, Bob Ferenbach. There will be $50 worth of prizes divided into first, second, and third; $25 for first, $15 for second and $10 for third.

Mr. Lair adds that the contest will include houses in a six mile radius of the city limits of Winchester.

Conservation Deadline

The final date for completing soil conservation practices approved during the past year under the AC Program is Dec. 31, 1958, according to a warning issued Saturday by Frank Kilver, office manager of the Scott ASC County Office.

Not only must the work be carried out as required by that date, but a proper report must be filed by Jan. 9, 1959, in order for farmers to receive the cost-sharing assistance that has been set up for their farms.

It should be clearly understood, continued Mr. Kilver, that no extension in time can be granted for the application of limestone and rock prosphate. These materials must be applied by Dec. 31 in order to earn payment under an existing approval. For certain other practices, such as ponds, a limited extension in time may be granted on request if the project can be considered as substantially completed. Farmers having such projects should discuss the matter with the ASC as soon as possible.

Any practice undertaken after the beginning of the new year will not be eligible for cost-sharing assistance unless a new 1959 request is made before the work is started. Such requests may be filed beginning Jan. 2. Lime and rock phosphate practice for 1959 sign-up begins Jan. 2; a soil test is requested at the time.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

A FEW SIDELIGHTS FROM U.S. FARM OUTLOOK MEETING

Sideline discussion at the National Agricultural Outlook Conference in Washington brought out some important trends in farming not generally reported elsewhere. Among these were the following points:

1. A succession of weather developments lifted farm income in 1958.

First, unfavorable weather in the fall of 1957 delayed harvest and sales of some crops until after January 1. This added income in 1958.

Second, winter freezes in the south trimmed production, raised prices and boosted returns from fruits and vegetables.

Third, rapidly improving range and pasture conditions caused ranchers and farmers to slow their sales of cattle. This boosted total returns from both cattle and hogs.

Finally, very favorable weather over most of the United States produced exceptionally large crops. The big production, together with price support, provided large income from the sale of crops.

Altogether, these weather developments lifted net realized farm income for 1958 about one-fifth that of 1957. Some of these weather effects will fade out in 1959, and farm income will decline accordingly.

2. Producers in other regions believe that they can make good profits from producing products now being produced mostly in the corn belt. Here are some examples:

First, many farmers in the south think they took the broiler business away from the corn belt, and they believe they can take the hog business too. Hogs at $18 to $20 would make very attractive profits for southern farmers.

Second, the production of sorghums and other feed grains in the southwest is being greatly stimulated by price supports. Increased production is being achieved principally by the development of new hybird varieties and by increased irrigation. About 60 percent of the sorghum grain that is produced is "sold" to Uncle Sam by way of price support loans. After the government takes over the grain, it is sold at cut rates, for export or domestic use in competition with corn.

Production of sorghum grain this year is estimated at 639 million bushels. This will provide almost as much as will be provided by all the corn and oats grown in Illinois in 1958.

In the far southwest, corn is often the most profitable crop, except for cotton, that can be grown on the newly irrigated lands. In Kansas, and probably in other dry areas, land can be purchased and wells and irrigation equipment provided for less per acre than the price of corn-belt land.

3. Large-scale farming is developing rapidly, especially in the livestock enterprises. For example, one "farm" has 250,000 laying hens. Eight or ten others have 100,000 hens or more.

A semi-cooperative dairy farm in Iowa has over 800 dairy cows. In Utah, cows belonging to several farmers are handled in one herd, the profits being divided among the farmers who furnish the cows. There are several such herds. This practice has been growing since 1939. In New Jersey, a large herd of dairy cows is owned by the workers who care for it.

These are but a few examples of the important developments that are influencing farming and farmers these days.

JACKSONVILLE PCA CELEBRATES 25TH ANNIVERSARY

The Jacksonville Production Credit Association, farmer-owned cooperative which furnishes short-term credit to farmers of Morgan, Scott, Cass and Menard counties, celebrated its silver anniversary Thursday at a dinner meeting held at the Masonic Temple. Nearly 250 members attended.

Seated at the speaker's table, from left, are Rev. Fred Wilson, Chapin, who pronounced the invocation; Roy Newbery, Jacksonville, director; Maurice Strang, Murrayville, chairman of the nominating committee; Joseph R. Cosgrove, St. Louis, vice president of the Federal Intermediate Credit board; Darrell Achenbach, Geneva, general manager, Country Mutual Insurance Co., Leroy Castle, Bluffs, association president; Glenn Spencer, Jacksonville, secretary-treasurer; Mel Akers, Jacksonville, toastmaster; Mayor Robert A. DuBois; Arthur C. Wilson, Murrayville, director; W. Irving Brown, Oakford, director; Alford R. Dick, Beardstown, director.

Farmers Of Tomorrow To Use More Capital

The next 20 years or so will find America with fewer farmers to provide for an ever-expanding population predicted Darrell L. Achenbach Thursday when he addressed the silver anniversary meeting of the Jacksonville Production Credit association.

"And it appears likely that capital requirements will continue to range upward. The coming years will provide a premium on management, with still many opportunities, but it appears certain that credit requirements will continue to go up. This is not as ominus as it sounds; it will merely require another group of people arriving at different solutions for different problems," declared Achenbach, who is general manager of the Illinois Farm Bureau affiliate, Country Mutual Insurance.

Castle Reelected

During the business meeting the members reelected President Leroy Castle of Bluffs to serve another three year term. He was nominated by a committee consisting of Maurice Strang, Murrayville; Roy Barrett, Bluffs; John Ackerman, Williamsville, and R. Darrell Smith, Virginia, and elected by unanimous vote.

Also approved unanimously was a resolution to issue up to $10,000 in Class A (non-voting) stock to non-members of the association. It was said that it appeared likely that some of this stock may be acquired shortly by the Farm Bureau Service companies of Cass, Menard, Scott and Morgan counties in order to help finance seasonal fuel, seed and supply accounts.

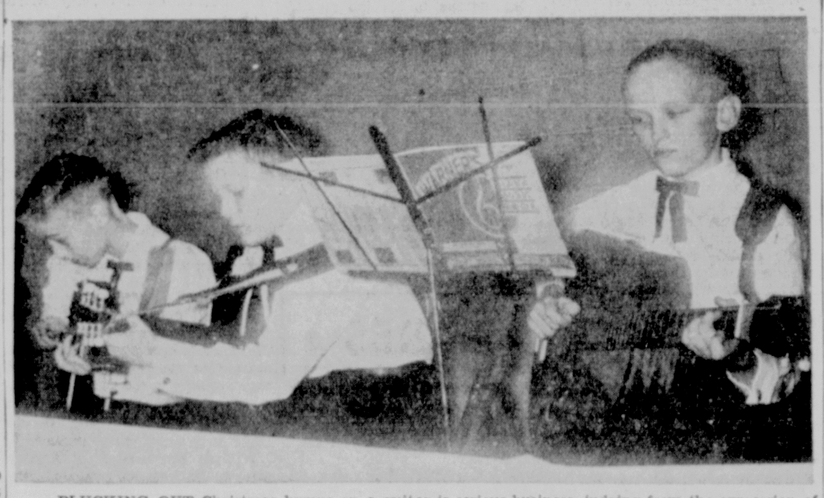
Great Progress

Secretary Spencer told the group "You have come a long way since 1933, when this company was started with a five dollar bill."

PCA stock outstanding now has a par value of $158,940. The association has a surplus of $125,574 and reserves of $42,314. Nearly 1,200 loans were processed during the past 12 months, with a million and a half dollars in loans outstanding. The current interest rate is 5½%.

A dozen poinsettas, the table decorations, were awarded as door prizes to the following persons: William Hagen, Franklin; R. Darrell Smith, Virginia; Oren Standley, Virginia; Billie Jean Adkins, Franklin; Clyde Taylor, Chapin; Delbert Fricke, Jacksonville; Scott Holmes, Jacksonville; Ila Tash, Naples; Richard Coultas, Winchester; Mrs. R. E. Stocker, Murrayville; Elmer Bradley, Greenview, and Elmer F. Smith, Petersburg.

DARRELL ACHENBACH, general manager of the Illinois Farm Bureau's Country Mutual Insurance Co., was the principal speaker. He predicted wider use of credit by farm managers of the future.



PLUCKING OUT Christmas hymns on a guitar is serious business, judging from the expression of these three young entertainers at the PCA meeting. From left they are Norman Zeller of Alexander, Billy Young of Jacksonville and Gayle Petefish of Virginia. They were accompanied by Ted Olson of Jacksonville, piano, and at the organ by their instructor, Lyndall Symons, Jacksonville.

A YOUNG MALE QUARTET sang holiday tunes. They were Bill Thomson, Joe Klem, Jerry Symons and Bill Hitt. Their accompanist was Navana Eyre.

Other musicians on the program included Mrs. Mazie Hall of Pittsfield, Miss Margaret Seymour, Jack Lukeman and Steve Bockemeier, Jacksonville.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

We have been on several beef farms this fall to help with the performance testing program and have found some outstanding calf crops in which the calves weigh heavy and grade high.

We find the better calf crops on farms that:

1. Use high-quality registered bulls.
2. Have abundant pasture.
3. Show good management.
4. Keep cattle records.

Beyond the Record

Station Superintendent Bob Webb expresses the opinion that records have a value beyond that of being just records. Records on a herd call for individual identification. Individual identification calls for handling each animal as an individual. Bob feels that this individual treatment, rather than herd treatment, is responsible for good management and necessary for successful beef-raising. Performance tests call for records, and that alone will probably bring about the improvement of beef herds.

To Self-Feed Protein

With some types of wintering rations for beef cows, it is often hard to feed protein supplement in the small amounts that are required. Our cattle researcher, George Cmarik, says to self-feed it—but with salt. George suggests mixing 80 pounds of soybean oil meal with 20 pounds of salt. After several days, consumption can be measured and the salt level increased or decreased to provide the desired protein consumption.

Cancer Eye

One of the extra jobs taken on by Dr. M. E. Mansfield, Station veterinarian, is a cancer eye study in the Dixon Springs beef herd. Each year at roundup all animals over a year old are checked for eye abnormalities that may be related to cancer. This is the third year for this check. After we have several year-by-year records on each animal, we may have an idea of what predisposes eye cancer and in what stages it develops.

This study is also being carried on by other experiment stations in the north-central region, all in cooperation with the American Cancer society. A summary of all observations may confirm or dispel the belief that some breeds of cattle are more susceptible to cancer eye than others. The relation of inheritance, injury or pinkeye to cancer eye will be observed. The continuous year-to-year record of changes or lack of change in eye abnormalities in large numbers of animals should prove valuable in the fight against cancer.

Piatt County Farmers O.K. Social Security, But Margin Is Slight

URBANA — Slightly more than half of a sample of farmers surveyed recently by University of Illinois agricultural economists favored the social security program. These farmers in a township in east-central Illinois also expressed some other opinions about the program.

Among the 207 farm owners and operators surveyed, about three out of five believed that social security would result in earlier retirement. Operators were more confident about this point than owners.

But even though a majority believed that farmers would retire earlier, slightly less than half thought that young men would have a chance to make an earlier start in farming. This feeling can be explained by the fact that farms are getting bigger and some of the land made available through retirement may go to enlarging farms rather than being rented or sold to new operators.

More moves to town by retired farmers may not result from social security. Slightly less than half believed that retiring farmers would move to town because they now have social security.

Less Life Insurance

Social security will also affect farmer spending. Slightly more than half of those surveyed believed that the program would make it harder for young farmers to save money and retire their debts. Many operators, in expressing this view, are probably anticipating the higher tax rate in the next few years. A small majority expect that farmers will carry less life insurance and depend more on the insurance features of the social security program. Most of those interviewed believed that landlords would not use their benefit payments to improve their farms. Less than half believed the program would make it harder for farmers to buy land.

Hardships resulting from social security seem to be slight. Only very young farmers and small-scale operators have considered the tax payment a heavy burden. Lease changes have been infrequent. Little land has been made unavailable to younger operators because an older man has continued farming to acquire social security coverage.

Blue Ridge Township

Farmers cooperating in this survey either owned or operated land in Blue Ridge township in Piatt county. This area has flat to gently rolling land with rich soil. Recent sales have ranged from $500 to $700 an acre. Most farms are cash-grain operations, but the area also has some cattle feeding. About 63 percent of the land is tenant-operated. More than 8 out of 10 owners and operators cooperated with Luther C. McKinney, Franklin J. Reiss and Charles L. Stewart, who conducted the survey.

Winter Is Best Time To Get Rid Of Brush

At this time of the year, when woody plants become dormant, and on into the winter basal bark and stump treatments with 2, 4-5T is the most effective method for controlling brush, says Dale A. Hewitt, Scott county farm adviser.

One application seldom achieves a 100% kill. Two or more may be needed to do a complete job on some of the resistant woody plants, he adds.

Basal spraying gives the best results between Dec. 15 and March 15. This dormant season treatment gives the advantage of controlling larger woody plants and special species, including some oaks and maples, that are resistant to foliage sprays.

MEREDOSIA 4-H CLUB TO MEET MONDAY

Certificates, medals and pins won by the members of the Meredosia Redi-Workers 4-H club will be distributed at a regular meeting to be held in the high school vocational agriculture building at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Dec. 8.

The club is led by Howard McPherson, former Meredosia agriculture instructor now employed by the ABC plant food company, and Bob Werries. The group will seek new members during the coming few weeks.

Bob Hayward, Jr., assistant farm adviser, will attend the meeting.

RURAL YOUTH PLANS CHRISTMAS PARTY

Plans for the annual Christmas party of the Morgan County Rural Youth were discussed last week when the officers met at the Farm Bureau with the representatives of the Extension service.

It will be held at Farm Bureau hall at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 18. Rita Clayton of Waverly and John Leischner of Arenzville are co-chairmen in charge of the event.

The organization now has a membership of 63.

TO PLAN SWINE PRODUCERS' DAY

Farm Adviser George A. Trull announces that Harry Russell of the U.I. animal science department will be in Jacksonville Thursday, Dec. 18, to confer with farm advisers of west central Illinois counties to plan for the regional "Swine Day" program to be held here March 17.

The Jacksonville meeting will be one of five to be held throughout the state next March. The series will replace the one-day "Swine Day" program that has been held at the University in recent years.

University of Illinois dairy technologists, using newly developed pasteurization equipment, have stored unsterile milk at room temperature for two weeks with no harmful effects.

Ivy-Covered Fog

A "sinister change" in the kind of writing which is being done by college students is seen by a Princeton professor.

Prof. Willard Thorp says that many students seem no longer to be able to write their native tongue. They strive to communicate in a gibberish which the professor calls "No-English" in an article written apparently at white heat for the Princeton Alumni Weekly.

"We are now too often presented," he says, "with a kind of prose—if that is the name for it—which is inviolable. A red pencil used against it becomes as impotent as a sword in a folk tale which had a spell put on it.

"Sometimes this prose resembles a bad translation from a foreign language. Sometimes it suggests that the writer has squeezed together under pressure the jagged ends of several assorted ideas. The writer of No-English is unconscious of the fact that his pages resemble nothing else under the sun. If you say to him, 'This is not English. You must tear this up and try again,' he will answer plaintively 'But you know what I mean, don't you?'"

We will quote only one of Professor Thorp's horrible examples of No-English but it is enough to send the language lover groping for the booby hatch exit:

"When Twain was writing Huckleberry Finn he decided to implement the voyage as a cohesive catalyst. Twain used a general local. Faulkner has a restrictive local, and Thoreau wrote for everybody in the universal."

There is something chillingly elusive in this student writing that bothers us. Somewhere we've heard that kind of nonsense-talk uttered with the pomposity of high authority.

We may be on the verge of tracing the source of the professor's "sinister change" in American undergraduate writing style. Was it a speech by a Madison Avenue public analysis tycoon? Was it a government directive from Washington? Was it military orders from brass to brass during World War II?

Or was it all three? Who can blame the poor college boys for intransigeantly implementing the gobbledegook of their elders by cohering to linguistic constructions obviously weighted with the approbation of the successful community?

Or, don't blame the kids. Let's set them a better example by talking plainly.

How else can we develop in the future men like Milton, whose simple words still define the rules of free inquiry, of Jonathan Swift, who spoke for enslaved men, or Tom Paine, whose flaming words were more useful to Washington than 10,000 soldiers?

True Sportsman

There's strength for the weak and inspiration for the tired in some recent words uttered by a man who was paralyzed from the neck down by an automobile accident: "I've got so many things to be thankful for. I'm thankful no member of my family was with me at the time of the accident. I'm thankful the car didn't set on fire when it turned over. I'm thankful I didn't die on the operating table. I'm thankful I've got all my senses. I'm thankful just to be home, surrounded by my family."

These are the words of Roy Campanella, a man.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — "I know I could do pictures again, but I also know I could never convince the producers of that. So I've found another field for myself — the circus."

This was the realistic view of Tim McCoy, Hollywood's only authentic Western star. He's a colonel, but not the Kentucky kind. Before coming to Hollywood in 1922, he actually served with the Army among the Indians in western America.

Tim was one of MGM's brightest stars (one of his leading ladies was Joan Crawford), later made Western series for Columbia and Monogram.

"I walked out of Monogram to go into the Army during the war," he said. "When I came back, everyone had forgotten me. I decided I wasn't going to fight them. So I got a place in Bucks County, Pa., and decided I would retire."

It turned out otherwise. He met and married Inga Arvad, then a magazine beauty editor and once a Hollywood correspondent. When they had the first of their two sons, Tim decided to come back to Hollywood and brave the new adventure of television.

He made a rousing success of a local show in which he demonstrated his vast knowledge of Western lore. He even won an Emmy from the Television Academy.

"That was the kiss of death," he sighed. "Three months later, I was without a sponsor."

Films beckoned him but only briefly. He did a cameo appearance in "Around the World in 80 Days" and a one-day vignette in an RKO Western.

Then came an offer to go with the Carson-Barnes Circus. Tim had toured three years with Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey, but didn't think he wanted to go back under the big top. His wife persuaded him to give it a try.

"And I've had the time of my life," he admitted.

He'd like to spend his winters making TV Westerns, "but it's hard to convince producers that Tim McCoy isn't 90 years old."

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — "Don't do it, Chuck. Westerns are going to be glut on the market. You'd be crazy to do your own TV Western.

This earnest advice was given to ex-baseballer Chuck Connors early this year, and he studiously ignored it. Good thing too. His show has turned up a winner.

The Rifleman is one of the few new shows of the season to break into the golden circle of top-rated programs. In just a few weeks, it has mounted to the top 10 in many of the ratings and shows signs of staying power.

Chuck is just as amazed as anyone.

"We are opposite stars like George Burns, Garry Moore and Arthur Godfrey in different parts of the country," he said. "These performers are real pros, yet we are beating them on the ratings.

"What's the answer? I think we have a high-quality show, but it isn't as good as all that. The answer must be that the audience really likes Westerns, no matter how many of them are on the air."

Lanky, self-assured Connors admitted that he took a chance in accepting the series. He had been averaging $35,000 a year in film and TV work and had just finished the best role of his career in "The Big Country." When the producers came to him with the Rifleman deal, he told what his terms would be. They were high.

"The most I ever made for the Cubs was $6,500 one season," he said. "Baseball's highest - paid player is Ted Williams, who earns maybe $150,000 a year in salary and his outside interests. I should be able to make more than that with the series over a three-year period."

And he could last longer too.

Morning-glory seeds may live five to ten years.

Matter of FACT

In the United States more than half of the power (including heating of buildings) and about 60 per cent of our electricity comes from coal. To get the same amount of power from horses, each man, woman and child in the country would have to drive at least seven heavy work horses day and night, every day in the year, without a moment's rest.

Starch Criticism—C.O.D.?—Success Formula—Dark Victory—Small Comfort—Too True—Test Run

BY JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON— (NEA) — Biggest tizzy among arty members of the diplomatic set is being caused by an abstract painting called "Bedspread."

The picture, which is being exhibited by Washington art dealer Alice Denny, consists of a few flecks of color haphazardly splattered on a large blob of white paint. After seeing it for the first time one unimpressed State Department type cracked:

"I don't know why they call it an abstract. It's a perfect reproduction of the work that's usually turned out by my laundry."

Genial Pakistan Embassy Press Attache Sayed Haq was startled the other day to receive a postcard which said, "Please send me all of Pakistan." The words were scrawled in a child's handwriting and covered the entire card.

"This request is impossible to fulfill," Haq cracked. "The child forgot to give us his return address."

Greek Naval Attache Constantine Denezakos makes a practice of introducing his guests to fancy Greek liqueurs and always produces a different one at every part he throws. Other night at a shindig he tossed for visiting Greek Naval Chief Admiral George Bacas, he served Ouzo, a colorless licorice-tasting concoction that turns white when it's mixed with water.

Everybody agrees that this is the best drink that Denezakos has served yet. And friends have made him promise to serve it during at least two more parties before he switches to a new one.

Best Thanksgiving party of the year was the one tossed by the American Newspaper Women's Club for all the embassy press attaches.

The gals worked for three days in advance roasting two large turkeys, mixing spice-loaded salads, concocting cheese dips and preparing what amounted to almost a truckload of boiled shrimp.

Then just an hour before the party was due to start, the electrical system blew a fuse, and the lights went out. To make things worse, every electrician the gals called had gone home for the day.

But the calamity surprisingly turned out to be a blessing. The hostesses say the most enthusiastic comments about the party concerned its candlelight atmosphere.

While Being sworn in as new Assistant Secretary for European Affairs, Livingston T. Merchant remarked about the reduced size of the certificate of commission which had just been presented him. He explained to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that it was much smalled than the one he received when he took another job with the department several years ago.

"This must be a sign of the government's economy drive," Merchant quipped.

"I'd rather you considered it as a favor," Dulles answered. "We cut the size so that it would cost YOU less to frame."

A Sign On A Pentagon official's desk reads:

"Anyone who remains calm amid all this confusion simply does not understand the situation."

In Addition to his job as Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Arleigh Burke has become the Navy's top fashion model.

Recently the famed admiral helped design a formal dinner jacket for Naval officers to wear during the winter season. The only formal dinner duds they have are strictly for summer use. Burke's creation is solid black and looks like an Ike jacket.

To find out how his officers like it, Burke has volunteered to wear the jacket to all formal parties he attends during the next month.

Don't Apologize for Your Looks; Maybe You're Right

Nothing detracts so much from a woman's appearance as her own apology for the way she looks.

You're glad to run into the acquaintance at the shopping center and too interested in her to pay much attention to how she looks. Then she starts apologizing for "looking so awful"—and, sure enough, you notice that she does look a little bedraggled.

You compliment a woman on a dress you've never seen her wear before. And then she tells you how old it is and how sick she is of it—and it doesn't look nearly so well any more.

A woman's hat seems attractive—until she points out that her face is really too round for the shape of the hat. Then you notice that it really isn't as becoming as you'd thought at first glance.

Only when one of the guests at a party starts apologizing for not being as dressed up as everybody else do her clothes seem in the least out of place.

You tell a woman how pretty she looks—and the general effect is spoiled when she starts telling you about what a frizzy permanent she got last week.

It's a chore trying to talk to a woman who is always busy smoothing her hair, adjusting her collar and tugging at her skirt. Even though her apology for her looks is unspoken—it's there in those patting, pulling gestures.

No woman always looks her best or is dressed perfectly for all occasions. But it usually doesn't detract from her personality—until she starts apologizing and calling attention to herself.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Secretary of State John Foster Dulles says the West must have forces to fight limited wars, the Eisenhower administration, bent on economy, cuts the size of the American armed forces.

Sound inconsistent? Not if this country is going to depend more on Allied and friendly countries to use their manpower, with American backing. Dulles seemed to be suggesting that in a speech Thursday at San Francisco.

The only trouble with the idea is whether the Allies and friends have enough strength, without American manpower, to do the job.

Dulles said it is not enough to have great retaliatory striking power. "It is necessary," he said, "to have forces-in-being at endangered points."

This might seem like a switch—but it isn't necessarily so—from that famous speech he made Jan. 12, 1954, in which he said the Eisenhower administration had decided to rely on "massive retaliatory power" for the defense of the United States and the free world.

In that same talk nearly five years ago he appeared to sense that there might be local wars in which massive retaliation wouldn't be used. He said the important thing was to make setbacks by the Communists temporary and local.

On Nov. 19 Secretary of Defense Neil T. McElroy announced orders for a reduction of about 71,000 in Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps manpower. This is part of the administration's effort to cut spending.

The decision to make these reductions had been reached earlier, but action was held up some months because of two war scares: in the Middle East and the Formosa Strait. This country sent troops into Lebanon and backed up Chiang Kai-shek's defense of the island of Quemoy.

When those crises quieted down the administration went ahead with the decision to cut military manpower although it wasn't then, and still isn't, in a position to know whether there would be another crisis next week or next month.

Certainly not all of America's friends could depend on their own manpower to hold the fort for themselves.

Chiang couldn't have held Quemoy without the big show of American naval strength. And there would have been no need to send American troops into Lebanon if the Lebanese government had been able to protect itself.

Dulles said Thursday: "Nations in close proximity to powerful aggressive forces need the reassurance of some visible force within their own territory. (Meaning, no doubt, a lot of their own military manpower — provided they have it.)

"They are not content to be wholly dependent upon decisions in other lands.

"Furthermore, vast retaliatory power should not be, and will not be, invoked lightly. There must be an ability to oppose what may be limited probings in ways less drastic than general nuclear war."

Then, as if to suggest most of the manpower would have to be supplied by American friends and Allies if the Communists push them, Dulles said: "Most of the 'limited war' forces are contributed by our Allies. For example, they contribute 80 per cent of the ground forces. We help to maintain and support these forces by supplying, where needed, military weapons, and occasionally some financial support. This is truly a system of collective security."

There's one gap in Dulles' reasoning: If the Communists began a limited war where an ally had plenty of manpower, this country might be able to see it through with various forms of aid that didn't include manpower.

But what happens if an ally or friend is attacked and doesn't have enough strength—as in the case of Lebanon, which wasn't even attacked—to protect itself?

The more the administration cuts its military forces, the fewer it will have to fight a limited war where they might be needed.

Keeping Invalid Busy and Happy Needs Only Ingenuity

MRS. MARIE DAERR

"What can I do to make my invalid mother happier?" writes Mrs. J. B. "She can't get out to golden-age club meetings or to visit friends.

"It is all we can do to get her into the car for a little ride. The days are so long for her. Do you have any ideas, besides reading and watching TV?

A wise, kind and understanding woman who is recreation director in a home for the aged told me: "Too many people—who don't mean to be unkind—bury their invalids alive. Even if an old person can't leave the house, there is much to be done for him—and it's very much worth the doing."

Here are some of her suggestions:

GIVE your invalid some handwork to do, even if he can use only one hand. Try a little loom on which he can weave place mats. It's small enough to rest on a bedside table and, if necessary, he can steady it with his chin.

LET him try his hand at drawing. Many a person never knew he could outline a buttercup until he suddenly had plenty of time to find out. You can make your own easel.

KNITTING and crocheting are fine wheel-chair hobbies, if both hands are usable. They are particularly morale building if the end product is a little gift for a friend or a relative.

DIFFICULT though it may be, get your patient into an auto and to an outside event, if it is at all possible. Taking wheel chair-bound people to a concert or a play is well worth effort. They will relive the event for months to come.

TRY getting three or four invalids together for an afternoon or evening in someone's home. If you can show them slides, give a book review or tell them about your travels, and then serve a cup of tea or a few cookies, the event will be a real party.

EVEN if there is no entertainment, it will be a treat for them to get together. They may do nothing but talk about their aches and pains, but they will be having a better time than if they were alone.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Jesus' Parables of Life

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The parables of Jesus recorded in Luke 15—the Parable of the Prodigal Son, the Parable of the Lost Sheep, and the Parable of the Lost Piece of Silver—are parables concerning God.

They are designed to tell of His loving Fatherhood, of His yearning for the recovery of the lost, and, like the rejoicing at the home-coming of the Prodigal, the joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth.

Other parables of Jesus directly concern man, his personal character and attitude, his sense of values, his approach toward God, and his relationship with his fellowman.

Nowhere has teaching upon these matters been clearer, simpler, and more specific.

It emphasizes how much more effective are stories in illustration and precision than whole volumes and elaborate discourses on the philosophy of human life and conduct.

Take the matter of the evaluation of life itself. It was the plain statement of Jesus that "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things that he possesseth."

He illustrated this, which men for the most part believe, but seldom act upon, by one of the strangest stories that has ever been told. It is the story of the rich farmer in Luke 12:16-21.

The story is remarkable in that it strikes at what one might think of as a very natural, normal, and properly economic situation. The farmer did what nine out of ten prosperous and wealthy farmers would do, build greater in continuing prosperity. The farmer of the parable, in fact, seemed a little wiser than most, for he intended at least, and at last, to have a good time.

But what Jesus emphasized was that he had left out the most important part of all—his own life.

I'm not a Greek scholar, but I think I recall that the word translated as "soul" (verse 20) was the Greek word referring to bodily life, not the immortal spirit. It wasn't that the farmer was conspicuously a sinner though he had not been "rich toward God," but that he had lacked the proper evaluation of life at its lowest level.

There is the matter of one's essential religion and his approach toward God.

Jesus taught, next to love in religion and life, the supremacy of humility toward one's fellowmen, but especially as one thought of himself in relation to God.

Where could this have been more vitally illustrated than in the Parable of the Pharisee and the Publican (Luke 18:9-14)?

This parable was directly to "those who trusted righteous and despised others," the bigots, and preposterous paraders of alleged superiority, whose name in religion has been legion.

When Jesus stressed the greatness of service, as beyond all other greatness, He not only gave the example by washing the Disciples' feet, but He told that greatest of all stories concerning social service and man's obligation toward his fellowmen—the Parable of the Good Samaritan.

Preserves, Cupcakes: Dessert

As easy as saying "Merry Christmas," you can turn plain cupcakes into a festive dessert.

Fruit-Filled Christmas Cupcakes

Allowing one cupcake for each serving, scoop out a hollow in the top of each cake. Fill with a tablespoon of damson plum or apricot preserves; sprinkle cakes and preserves with Spanish sherry. Shortly before serving, cover cakes with sweetened whipped cream flavored with a tablespoon or two of sherry over the topping just before taking to table.

Visiting Control Plan Adopted By Illini Hospital

PITTSFIELD—Beginning Monday, Dec. 8, the Women's Guild and Women's Auxiliary of the Illini Community Hospital will control the visiting of patients at the hospital. Due to the extremely crowded condition of the hospital it is necessary to institute these controls.

It will soon be necessary to turn the sun parlor over to the general contractor for construction purposes. This area will be made into two patient rooms. The sun parlor has been used for many years as a patient area, housing up to seven patients. In order to help make up for the loss of these beds, three private rooms will be converted into double rooms.

Visiting hours will be from two to four in the afternoon and seven to eight-thirty in the evening. Only two visitors at a time will be allowed per patient. Exceptions to these regulations will be made only in the case of critically ill patients. Children under fourteen will not be allowed to visit.

Scissors have many uses in a busy kitchen. They cut parsley, chives, mint, scallions and leeks without the bother of a knife and cutting board.

Merge Talents In Christmas Saga

Ogden Nash has recaptured the lilting tempo of bygone Christmas verse in his just released, The Christmas That Almost Wasn't. He is shown above with daughter, Linell, who did the illustrations.

The satirical poet laureate skillfully weaves his artistry of word phrasing to tell of a plan set in motion to outlaw Christmas in the land of Lullapat.

Lullapat land is ruled by good King Oldwin and the 'star' of the tale is an eight year old boy. The villainous traitors are finally overpowered by the eight year old with able assistance from many 'do-gooders,' introduced by mirth-provoking verse and ends in true 'happy ever after' fashion.

The contagious rhythm of the story is delightful and excellent for reading aloud in classroom or clubroom, to be enjoyed by adults as well as children. The entire book of verse can be completed in average reading time of thirty minutes.

Captivating illustrations in line and color by Nash's daughter generously accompany The Christmas That Almost Wasn't.

How To Be A Weatherman

By Joseph A. Smith

Rain, Sleet, Snow

The last time you forgot your raincoat and were caught in a rain storm you no doubt became well acquainted with that very common form of moisture. Each spring and fall bring us our usual showery period when the rainfall is quite frequent and often times heavy. To be able to measure it we can construct a very simple inexpensive Rain Gauge.

Have mother save you a quart size glass milk bottle and buy a funnel from the dime store; the diameter of its mouth must be the same as the bottom of the bottle. To allow for splashing off of the sides of the funnel add 10 per cent to the amount measured (See picture).

But besides rain we have DEW which appears early some mornings on the grass and flowers as tiny droplets of moisture. Tiny bits of moisture or water vapor condense (change into a liquid form as droplets). A cool clear morning when the outside temperature is near though above 32 degrees F. brings about this change on grass, leaves, and plants. If the temperature is below 32 degrees F. frost or snow will appear instead of dew.

Fogs, such as we see in a low section of land, are caused by the rapid cooling of the air, there. Moist air pushes the humidity up near 100 per cent; in effect, it is a cloud lying near the ground.

Hail may often times appear during a shower. These storms often contain violent up and down drafts. These wind currents can carry the drops of rain up and down within a cloud any number of times, and, if the upper air is cold enough, the rain drops will tend to freeze. When they are heavy enough they will fall as Hail.

If, however, only the air nearest the earth is cold the moisture may fall as rain and then freeze on the earth's surface; this gives us our "Ice Storms."

Sleet is simply frozen rain drops. As we shall see later, one can pretty well foretell from the clouds, temperature, direction of the wind and the type of precipation the fact that a storm is coming and its intensity.

The French Girl Who Came To Live Here

By Melma Huckeby Ewert

Part 2: Comes to Jacksonville

This continues the story of the French girl for whom Illinois College's new dormitory is named: Frances Celeste Brard.

In the early fall of 1825, a young missionary came to the old town of Kaskaskia Illinois, where Celeste was living with her aunt. He was "tall and athletic in stature" and "of very dignified and commanding presence."

John Millot Ellis was just out of an Eastern Seminary, Dartmouth.He was ordained to the ministry in Old South Church Boston after which he started west.

"t was a golden fall day when John Millot Ellis came to Kaskaskia to preach in the Presbyterian church. He told of how sparsely settled he had found Illinois; how few schools, (only subscription schools, fewer newspapers, even as far up as Springfield:

One member of John Millot Ellis' church was the French girl, Frances Celeste Brard, now a young lady. Though born and bred a Cacholic, she had chosen to become a protestant.

When she read, in the "Kaskaskia Reporter," articles by John Millot Ellis explaining his plan to establish a Seminary of Learning, Miss Brard enjoyed matching wits with the young minister. She too, was interested in learning, and was mistress of a school for girls in Kaskaskia.

Meanwhile, Mr. Ellis' Missionary journeys were taking him all over southern Illinois and up to Morgan County, and all that time he was looking for the site of his college, in which quest he appointed a committee to help.

Selects Jacksonville

With one of them, Thomas Lippincott, he went to Springfield. There, remembering the hills around Jacksonville, (the mound), Mr. Ellis said "the school should be established in Jacksonville."

He promptly made a contract to buy what is now called "College Hill."

While fulfilling this plan, he was called to the active little Presbyterian church in Jacksonville. And to the Manse he brought his bride, Frances Celeste Brard.

Part 3: Log House School

It was in November, 1829, that newly elected trustees of "The College On the Hill" one mile west of town met and voted to collect funds to build its first building, Beecher Hall.

Already Frances Celeste Ellis had a School For Girls in her home: The Manse. Girls were enrolled from St. Louis, Kaskaskia, Prairie du Rochere.

These girls lived in the Manse, and Frances' boarded them too. Town girls also were enrolled.

Although the little log house had but three rooms, Frances Celeste Ellis taught French, Music, Literature, Art, and other courses. She was home-maker, house-keeper, the Minister's wife, and Mistress of a Girl's school: the forerunner of the Jacksonville Female Academy. Many of her lag cabin pupils continued their education at the Acaremy.

Four years later, tragedy came. Cholera struck the little pioneer "Athens of the West." in 1833.

The Rev. Mr. Ellis had returned from a long trip to Indiana, late on a Wednesday evening, Prayer-Meeting time. He stopped at the church, and stood in the door-way. The congregation was bowed in prayer.

He heard "Bless our stricken pastor who has so suddenly been bereft of his whole family." Frances Celeste, and their little boy and girl were dead.

It had been told that John Milotte Ellis "fell to the floor as if he had been struck by a butcher's knife."

"Tea-kettle, tea-kettle"
By Emma Mae Leonhard

The snow began falling on Thanksgiving evening and fell all night until it had accumulated into a six-inch layer over gardens, ever green hedges, and fields. It was the kind of snow which children love and which adults have to scoop.

It was also a snow which didn't discourage a small brown bird. More than one person reported hearing a call somewhat like that of a Cardinal, but not quite like it either. And one observant person saw the bird from which came that early morning penetrating call.

It was a small brown bird, a little larger than a wren, we were told. But the observer was sure that it wasn't a wren, for wrens had left in October. Then, after a second thought she asked, "It couldn't be a wren, could it?"

That is just what it was, a Carolina Wren, not a House Wren. This cinnamon-brown bird stays with us all the year round. When other birds aren't saying much and are busy among the weeds, hunting silently the seeds which keep them from freezing, the Carolina Wren bursts out with its "Tea-kettle, tea-kettle, tea-kettle" song.

Or you may hear "Chirpity, chirpity, chirpity, chirp." Or you may think that you are hearing the Cardinal or even the Tufted Titmouse. It has been called the Mocking Wren, but its varied notes hardly deserve the name of an imitator.

Although authorities state that it is not naturally as domestic as the House Wren, and it prefers swampy thickets and deep woods, it is found in Jacksonville. True, there aren't as many Carolina Wrens as there are House Wrens, but in the winter the few are easily evident.

This wren is also a friendly bird and is often so possessed with curiosity that it appears in full view of the observer. However, if it becomes aware that it is being stared at, it usually grows nervous and betakes itself to the cover that is available—logs, brush, or even low- growing vegetation.

Likes Suet, Nuts

If you maintain a bird-feeding station, you may be privileged with its visit. It likes suet and nut meats.

On that same cold day following Thanksgiving night a Carolina Wren appeared at our feeder. It announced its "busy-ness' with a kind of clear scolding "char, char, char" and flew to the frozen suet. There it hammered on the hard block of suet as tenaciously as does the Tufted Titmouse of Chickadee, and pulled off tiny bits of the rich tallow with its sharp slightly curved bill. Then it bounced to the feeding box and hammered on the wooden floor.

We could not discover why, because it did not touch a sunflower seed and soon flew away. Perhaps it was asking for some nut meats which the sparrows had already greedily devoured.

If you catch a glimpse of the Carolina Wren, you will have no trouble recognizing it, the brightest rusty brown and the largest of our wrens. Its pert tail is thrust upward in the air except when the bird is singing. Its sharp white eyebrow is easily detected.

We spontaneously admire this plump cinnamon-brown wren, undaunted by the frozen creeks and the driving snows.

Pitcher Ray Narleski, obtained by Detroit from Cleveland, won his most games in 1951 when he compiled a 15-8 record with Dallas in the Texas Leaglue. In 1958 he had a 13-10 record with Cleveland.

Stand Alone was an appropriately named horse. He was left at the post twice in successive races at Saratoga in 1939.

Save the plastic bags in which so many food and clothing items are wrapped nowadays. They are handy for storing small items like parsley and radishes in the refrigerator; they also make good freezer bags.

Paper towels are indispensable for draining fried foods like bacon and french fried potatoes. Hang a dispenser where the children can reach them for drying their hands.

Scissors have many uses in a busy kitchen. They cut parsley, chives, mint, scallions and leeks without the bother of a knife and cutting board.

Add minced parsley or celery tops to tomato juice and refrigerate overnight; strain and serve as an appetizer.

1957 MOON CARS

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

Since there's no air on the Moon, the Moon cars will need no stream lining. As a matter of fact, since the first ones must be brought up from Earth, streamlining would be an unnecessary weight.

The passenger section of the Moon car will actually be similar to the cabin of a space ship. The cabins of these Moon cars will probably be spherical because a ball shape is best to keep air pressure in.

They will be painted white to reflect the sun's light during the day and keep the car's heat in during the night. The car will not need to be completely surrounded by a meteor bumper as a space ship will, for meteors can only fall from above. The Moon car will only need a flat, umbrella-like meteor sheild above it.

This shield could also serve as a platform for a radio antenna and a spotlight. Since the exploring Moon cars will have no roads to travel on, they will have to have some kind of wheels to take them over both the dusty plains of the Moon and its rough hill land.

Use Rolligons

The best devices for doing this are the rolligons. These are barrel-shaped tires with very low pressure—just enough to make them stay up.

On the Moon, these rolligons will probably not need as much pressure as the cabin of the Moon car. For travelling along unexplored terrain, the Moon car could push a couple of cement wheels along in front of it to be sure the ground ahead will support it. This will be similar to the precautions that are taken in the Antarctic to guard against tumbling into a crevasse.

Of course, when permanent colonies are established on the Moon, highways will be built between the colonies and then the Moon cars can use tires like Earth cars. They will then be able to travel much faster.

BLACK MOLLY

y Rip Barnsdall

Scientifically known as Mollienisia latipinna, this pretty aquarium fish is extremely popular in aquariums.

Adults reach a length between two and three inches.

They are live-bearers, with the females having from one to forty young at one time. The babies are rather large when born, and it is often amazing to see a female Molly about an inch and a half long, having babies which in bulk are almost as large as she is.

Originally from Mexico, Central America, and Yucatan, this fish has been bred for many color varieties. Other phases are speckled black and white in many combinations.

Hard To Keep

The Black Molly, even though it is a very popular aquarium fish, is somewhat difficult to keep. Very slight temperature changes can very quickly transform a healthy Molly into a sick one.

Aquarists, keeping Mollies, should watch the temperature very carefully. A range in the seventies should be kept,—if the temperature drops below seventy, chances are, the Mollies will get the "shakes," or "sick," similar to a human with a head cold.

Rocket Patrol Serial—

The Rings Of Saturn

By Rip Barnsdall

Synopsis—Hank Farmer, piloting the rocket to Saturn, finds his ship in trouble as a stray asteroid hits it amidships.

Chapter 2: "Our Only Chance"

Over and over tumbled the rocket as crew members tried to right themselves.

Fortunately the asteroid had been a rather small one and even though it had hit the ship almost in the middle, very little pressure had leaked out because the asteroid was still lodged in the opening.

During the early years of space travel a number of ships had been very badly damaged because of being struck by an object in space. After the success of the very heavy gas used in shielding cities on the moon from falling meteorites, this same gas was forced inside an outside and inside wall of rockets.

Although this gas did not stop the object from hitting the rocket ship, at least it did prevent it from going through the ship.

Bob, Rick and Ed Stevens donned outside pressure suits as they prepared to repair damages from the outside. Others stood by to work from the inside.

Bob's Plan

"Our only chance is to burn pieces of the asteroid off," said Bob. "We'll try to smooth it off somewhat to the shape of the ship both on the outside and inside. Then we can fill the cracks with liquiplastic. If we try to dislodge the asteroid all our pressure will go whooshing out into space and we'll be asteroids ourselves."

Rick Wilson operated a jet-powered blow torch as he very carefully began cutting off chunks of the asteroid. He had to be attached to the ship with magnitraction bars so that he wouldn't be propelled out into space every time he gave a blast on the torch.

Bob filled in cracks with the liquiplastic while Ed watched for any signs of dislodging on part of the asteroid.

After almost a full days work about half the asteroid had been cut off. A relief crew went out to relieve Bob, Rick and Ed.

Rick wiped his brow as he removed his pressure suit. "Whew, imagine what a job this would have been had that asteroid been mainly rock."

Lucky Thing

"Yes," sighed Ed, "although we were unlucky to be hit, at least we were lucky enough to be hit by one made up mostly of nickel and iron."

"Yeah, we can certainly thank our lucky asteroids for that," kidded Rick.

Work on the outside progressed more rapidly now that the bulkier part of the huge hunk of metal had been removed.

Portable metal sanding machines were then passed to the outside so that rough portions could be smoothed down. This job took quite a bit of time since it had to be well done. Roughness on the outside of the rocket could cause considerable friction when the rocket would enter the atmosphere of a large body in space.

Two days later, after a thorough inspection, the twenty foot asteroid addition to the rocket was declared shipworthy. Engines were again started up and the rocket proceeded on its mission.

As a number of Saturn's moons hove into sight, Hank Farmer set course to circle them. Since they were small bodies, their gravitational pull had little effect on the ship. It could cruise at a speed of five hundred miles just above their surfaces.

Farmer set in autocontrols which caused the rocket to go around and around the moon until complete observations had been taken.

One after the other all of Saturn's moons were inspected, and the final result of observations on each of them was the same. "Not recommended for colonization by earth."

Me, My Derby A Tall Tale

By Billy Weller

Editor's note: Billy Weller, age 11, grade 6 Lafayette school, sent in the following story. Billy is the son of Mrs. Samuel V. Weller of 117 Finley St.

ME AND MY DERBY

One day I was at home working on my soap-box derby when I found an old airplane motor in the basement, and put it on the derby car. When I tried it out it took off and I couldn't catch up with it, then suddenly it started to fly!

So I grabbed my old climbing rope and roped it, but it pulled me up in the air with it, so I climbed the rope.

I couldn't turn the motor off so I kept on going, hoping I would run out of gas. All of a sudden I was over the Atlantic Ocean! Thank goodness I didn't run out of gas!

Suddenly I saw Paris below me and I started to land, but when I got on the ground I couldn't stop the motor, so I went back up in the air again and headed back across the ocean. When I got home I started to land and as soon as I got on the ground, I quickly tied the rope around a tree so that it wouldn't fly away again.

Then I took the motor off and let it run out of gas. I soon realized that I had gone from New York to Paris, non-stop!

A couple of days later I learned come guy named Lindbergh had taken all the credit.

That was the last time I put an airplane motor on my derby.

Mystery Serial—

Muzzle-Loading Gun

By Loella Sloan Young

Synopsis: Billy and Georgie's Daddy tells them of the mysterious message he got in the gun given him by their Great-Grandfather. He also tells how escaping slaves came to their Great-Grandfather for help in long-ago days.

Chapter 6: Great-Grandfather's Plan

"Let's see now—we'll have to wait till tomorrow night for you to get away from here, so I'd better cover your tracks in the snow around here right now. Before I do that, though, I'll get you some warm clothes and a blanket or two. My wife is fixing you something to eat now," Great-Grandfather told him.

"Thank yo', Thank Yo'," Jim nodded relieved. "It sho am cold for sure, Masta Young."

"Get back up in the hay and stay quiet, till I come back. We'll get you across the river tomorrow night. Simon Johnson on the other side will see you safely on from there.'

" 'Yessir,' answered Jim as he began to climb the ladder into the hay. "Then what happened?" whispered Georgie.

"Well," continued his Father, "Great-Grandmother fixed the couple a good hot meal. She hurried around and found some extra warm clothes and taking several blankets, she went out to the barn where the escaped slaves were mighty glad to see her.

"Several hours later," Daddy went on, "Great-Grandfather and old Shep returned, driving a herd of cows back into the barn."

" Goodness, Will," Great-Grandmother exclaimed as he came into the house. 'Where have you been with those cows?'

" Shep and I drove them back along the river to cover up any footprints they might have made in the snow,' he informed her, as he stomped his cold feet. 'That should throw any lawmen off their track for a day or so.'

Did They Get Away?

"And did they get away?" interrupted Georgie again.

"The next night," Daddy continued, "Jim and Annie, dressed warmly and carrying enough food to last for several meals, started for the river. Great-Grandfather and Shep drove his herd of cows along with them to cover any footprints they might make in the snow.

"Go on, go on," urged Billy.

"Well," Daddy continued, "Great-Grandfather and his herd of cows, had no more than gone out of sight of the house, when a loud knock, and a crisp loud voice commanding that the door be opened, was heard."

It's The Law

"Open up," the voice commanded loudly as a strong fist began to hammer on the front door. Great-Grandmother made her way through the hall to the front door.

"Who is it?" she called uneasily through the door.

"It's me, Miz Young, a familiar voice called through the door. "It's me, Constable Winters from town. I have a man here who wants to talk to your husband!"

"Taking a deep breath, and throwing back her head courageously, Great-Grandmother opened the door. In the bright moonlight she could see Constable Winters and a tall thin man, who looked very angry at the moment.

"Yes, Constable Winters," she said pleasantly, "What could I do for you?"

"The tall thin man almost growled as he pushed Great-Grandmother aside and swept past her into the hall. "You have 'em here," he exclaimed loudly. "I know it! Where are they?" he demanded closely into Great-Grandmother's face.

"Clam down, there Revoit." Constable Winters ordered. "We'll handle this business my way. I'm still in charge here, and don't you forget it. Now you settle yourself down. This woman is a lady."

"Lady, Humph!!" the thin man sneered through clenched teeth, while his beady little eyes darted into every dark corner of the house, seeking out his quary.

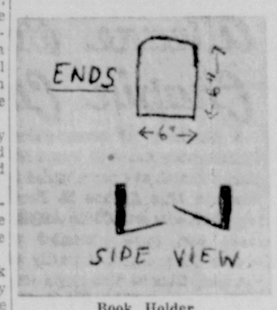
You Can Make This

By Joe Smith



Book Holder

Perhaps by this time you've collected some books or small magazines in your room, and would like to make something simple and easy to keep them together in. Well here's just the thing for the junior builder.

Down the basement scout around for two pieces of hardwood ½ inch thick, six inches wide, and six inches high, two thin flat pieces of sheet zinc, brass or copper each five inches square, and eight flat headed wood screws.

Now round off the edges of the top of both end pieces. Next rebate the bottom of each end; to do this we carve out a portion of the bottom ¼ inch along the inner edge and gradually decreasing to the full length along the outer edge.

Next take one thin flat metal piece and drill four ⅛ inch holes three-sixteenth inch from the outer edge and ⅝ inches apart; countersink these holes for a neat fit. Finally, place the end of the metal plate that has holes in it in the rebated end of the wooden blocks and screw it down tight with the flat-headed brass screws.

Now To Decorate

To protect the table it's used on coat the surface of the metal pieces with glue and cover with any kind of soft cloth. Why not sand the wooden end pieces smooth and paint with walnut stain?

To make a holder for a group of books simply substitute a piece of wood ½ inch thick, six inches wide, and two inches longer than the total thickness of the books you are going to put in it for the metal pieces used above. Use glue and four wood screws to fasten each end in place on the base board.

Countersink the flat-headed wood screws and end up by first sanding both base and sides smooth, then stain as you wish. A good coat of wax will protect the finish.

This will make a good Christmas present too!

CRITICS ASSAIL STATUE — Sculptor David McFall works on the new statue of Sir Winston Churchill in London, that critics assailed as a gorilla-like caricature. The controversy is over the artist's portrayal of the $14,000 two ton, 8 feet 6 inch statue. It was commissioned by Churchill's constituents in the district as a monument to the former Prime Minister. (NEA Telephoto)

Where Do "MIRACLE DRUGS" Come From?
They don't come out of a magician's hat but they sometimes do come from strange places. An East Indian snake root called Rauwolfia was once used widely in India for everything from treating epilepsy to making sleeping potions. Modern chemists then discovered its true therapeutic effectiveness. Now called Reserpine, it is widely used in lowering high blood pressure. This kind of exhaustive research keeps your doctor and our pharmacy well prepared to help you maintain your good health. Each prescription is filled with professional precision at our pharmacy.

Luncheon Served To Orleans Club

The Orleans Woman's Country Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Adeline Rawlings on December 2. The holiday mood was expressed in the food and table decorations of the delightfull luncheon which preceded the business meeting.

Mrs. James Heaton conducted the afternoon's business, and then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Roland Howe, who reviewed the new National Defense Education Act, passed by Congress in 1958.

Mrs. Howe discussed the three main educational fields intended to receive Federal aid under the new law, explained the need in our educational system for the immediate development of each of these fields, and then tried to estimate what the proposed Federal grants would mean in terms of the individual classroom.

She stressed the fact that, in order to receive Federal Aid, the States must match Federal funds, so it is extremely important that citizens study the needs of their own school system, and let the state department of education know of their interest and desire for better schools.

Mrs. Adeline Rawlings concluded the afternoon's program by showing pictures taken on her European tour.

TROY'S SITE

It is supposed that the town of Hissarlik, Turkey, in Asia, three and one-half miles north of the Hellespont, is the site of Ilium, known as Troy.

Thinly sliced radishes and gherkins, or shrimp cut in flat lengthwise halves make attractive garnishes for open cheese sandwiches; add one or two tiny sprigs of parsley to each garnish.

Never put green-tipped bananas in the refrigerator; they need to ripen at room temperature. After the bananas are fully ripe, however, they may be refrigerated for a day or two.

Party teasers: shrimp, water chestnuts, nut-stuffed pitted soaked prunes and oysters may all be wrapped round with bacon, secured with picks and broiled until the bacon is crisp.

Members who have not taken food for the Christmas baskets should take their contributions to Nancy Falls as soon as possible.

Juniors Collecting Toys For Needy Kiddies' Xmas

Even though social and civic groups are setting an all time peak in charitable deeds for the Christmas season, the Jacksonville Junior Woman's Club is collecting new and still-playable toys for many children in our elementary schools who are not expecting a 'toyful' Christmas.

The club has made contact with school personnel and knows of many needy families who are unable to provide toys for their children.

At the Christmas party for the Jacksonville Juniors held Monday evening, Dec. 1st, at Jacksonville Country Club many of the members took toys to the meeting. Many others are taking them within the next two weeks to the home of the Christmas Toy Chairman, Mrs. J. Ivan Crawford, 1713 South East street. Mrs. Crawford's phone number is CH 5-2950.

The club president, Mrs. Jack Mathews, served as Jolly Santa at the meeting and stopped long enough for a picture during a survey of the toys received at the meeting. Many more are expected to be taken to the chairmen within the next two weeks.

During the brief business session conducted by the president, members agreed to change the annual Guest Night from the month of April to January and initiation formalities to be conducted the following month, February.

W. T. Grant Store 'Pays Off' On Triplets

For the first time, since the W. T. Grant Company initiated its multiple birth insurance 25 years ago for customers in infants wear departments, the Jacksonville store has paid off a legitimate claim. Mrs. Vern Buchanan, east of Alexander, is shown with her triplets, Richard Edward, Teresa Sue, and Bruce Alan, being outfitted at the store. Grant's manager, James B. Robison, assists the mother with Mrs. Helen Ehlert, right, infants wear department manager and buyer.

The insurance is offered all prospective mothers who are customers in the infants wear department. The clerk lists on a policy form articles purchased, price, etc., and should twins, triplets or what have you arrive the store duplicates each purchase for the 'extra' infants. The Buchanan triplets were born Oct. 1st at Passavant hospital in this city.

Harris Teachers Trip Highlanders, 79-78; Tigers Bow

MacMurray Outscores Harris In Field Goals

ST. LOUIS — Harris Teachers connected on 29 of 43 attempts from the charity lane here Friday night to squeeze by MacMurray College's spirited Highlanders, 79-78.

MacMurray outscored its host from the field, 30-25, and shot a very respectable per cent of its charity tosses, hitting on 18 of 27 tries.

Coach Bill Wall was very pleased with his team's showing. He said, "It was our best showing to date and this includes last season. We'll be okay from here on out," Wall stated.

The Highlanders played without the services of guard Gary Little, who decided to forego his basketball career this week because of personal reasons. Little, a former stalwart as a Crimson cager, set a scoring mark last season as a Highlander with 49 points in one game.

Four Highlanders hit in the double figures with Chuck Osborne showing the way with 19. Marv Hohenberger, Jerry Lace and Don McCarthy had 17, 16 and 10 points, respectively.

The Teachers, who averaged 6'3", were paced by six foot, five inch Art Sidner, who racked up 26 points, 12 from the charity lane.

Railroaders Capitalize On Charity Tosses To Nudge Tigers, 53-48

By STAN SPOTTS

Roodhouse garnered its third straight triumph without a loss by overcoming a first quarter lead to hand Jim Spink's Tigers their first setback of the season Friday night at the westend gymnasium, 53-48.

The Tigers sliced an 11-point deficit to five points twice in the final quarter but the Railroaders started 'freezing' the ball with three minutes left in the game to maintain the lead. I.S.D.'s Billy Davis hit a free throw with :56 remaining in the game to narrow the margin to four, 50-46, before Billy Poncar of the Tigers hit a layup with 15 seconds remaining in the game to make it a 50-48 ball game in Roodhouse's favor. A fast break which netted Phil Hopkins of the winners an easy layup with six seconds left proved to be the clincher. Delos Pollard sank a free throw after the contest had ended on a charging foul by Louie Edwards just before the final gun to give Alex McKnight's cagers their five-point victory, 53-48.

The Railroaders saw the lead only once in the first quarter and that was on a free throw by Don Knox with 3:03 left in the opening frame. Louie Edwards and A. C. Parish collected all of ISD's tallies in the first quarter with six and three respectively.

The Tigers blew a five-point lead in the second quarter as a steady barrage by Roodhouse opened the way for the victory. When Phil Hopkins connected from the top of the key-hole with 2:58 left before halftime, it knotted the score at 17-all. Then Don Knox broke the deadlock 28 seconds later and the Tigers never saw the lead again. Roodhouse was on top by four at halftime, 25-21.

The visitors almost lost their margin in the third quarter by collecting only one point in four minutes and four seconds of play without a field goal. With Parish showing the way with four points, the Tigers came within one point of the lead, 25-26, with 4:25 left to play. Roodhouse hit 13 quick points, however, in the final three minutes and 55 seconds of the third stanza to lead by seven, 39-32, at the end of the period.

Louie Edwards of the Tigers was the ton gunner for the contest with 23 points. Jim Knox, Don Knox and Phil Hopkins of the Railroaders had 15, 14 and 13 points respectively.

TWO LOCAL FIRMS TEAM-UP FOR SACK-WRAP

Two Jacksonville executives try their skill in connection with another local first with an all-local product.

Herb Childs, left, manager of the Kordite plant, is holding a polyethylene bag designed by his company especially for the baking industry as Bob Conover, right, manager of the Ideal Baking Co., gets set with a loaf of Swedish Limpa Rye, one of his company's products.

The new type bag keeps bread fresh for a longer period of time. The empty bags are very good to store suede shoes or come in handy as refrigerator bags.

The bread is packaged in the plastic bag by hand and is used for specialty items in the baking industry.

The Kordite company is presently doing research in the field of machine packaging for regular loaves of Lucky Boy products.

The new package will be in Jacksonville area stores starting Wednesday.

NEW COURT HOUSE LOUNGE NOW OPEN TO PUBLIC

This is a view of the interior of a newly constructed lounge for Morgan County's senior citizens donated to the county by several score of workmen and business houses without cost. Sheriff Staley R. Keller is shown checking adjustment of the television set, also donated, prior to the official opening held Saturday morning.

Former Coal Bin Now Modern Lounge

The room renovated as a lounge by free labor and material was last used about 50 years ago as a coal bin and has since been used as a storage room. The floor level was raised, covered with tile and the walls plastered and painted before furnishing the entire room, complete with television.

Sheriff Staley R. Keller, who is also court house custodian said he received the idea from working around the court house several years. The new lounge is designed to provide a warm comfortable place for the senior citizens of the county to congregate and rest during downtown visits. Several of the workers in the court house have donated magazines. Anyone interested in sending discarded magazines of general interest for use in the lounge, the entrance is from West Court Street at the North door of the court house.

Opens Saturday

Rev. William J. Boston held short dedication ceremonies at the court house Saturday morning. Coffee and cookies were served following the short ceremonies.

About fifty persons were on hand for the ceremonies.

Open For Inspection

The newly completed lounge is located in the basement of the court house and is open for public inspection during court house hours. The public is cordially invited.

The following persons donated their labor and special skills for the project: Ralph Lomelino, Bob Wallace, Henry Fortado, Milt McPike, Frank Farrell, Donald Craig, S. J. Blackman, Cleve Ratcliff, Harry Oliver, Harry Bourn, Henry Cruse, Harold Fernandes, Truman B. THREE FACES OF LOVE

by FAITH BALDWIN

© 1957 by Faith Baldwin Cuthrell. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Striving for a closer understanding after 10 years of marriage, Hope and Adam wonder what they lack. They discuss adopting a child, but they do not really want to.

"I'm glad the owners are coming back for a while," Hope said. "I wouldn't like to think of the house being closed."

"It will be, later," said Adam, courteously handing Jupiter a piece of toast, "maybe the house likes it anyway; being free of people, even of owners or of lovely tenants like us. Maybe it likes being quiet for a change."

"I," said Hope proudly, "have left it terribly clean."

"So I noticed, and normally you're such a bad housekeeper. If it weren't for Mrs. Riggs and her ilk—"

"What's an ilk?"

"I haven't the remotest idea except it has nothing to do with antlers. Don't interrupt me. What was I saying anyway?"

"Very little. I thought this morning, It's too beautiful to leave. I thought, I'd rather leave in a bad storm. Then I recovered my senses. Storms are not fun to drive through—or is it in? So, all right. We leave in the sun."

"You will have to tear off immediately. Right now," said Adam. "More coffee on the way, and Jupiter will stretch his legs and so forth when we find a safe spot and we'll look for a good place to lunch. On your toes, Susan, anchors aweigh and all that sort of thing. The holiday's over. The Great Man and his loving spouse return to the serious business of living."

All living was a serious business; and, also, loving.

Each had seen more clearly here than ever before the face of his lover shaped to the expression of love. Never his own face. There had not always been darkness, but the differing illuminations afforded by a night lamp, a slant of moonlight, an incoming dawn or an outgoing day, the glitter of sun on a deserted beach.

Hope had seen gravity, and the brooding regard which has the inexplicable look of anger and is not anger, and all infused with an indescribable tenderness. Adam had seen submerged a face, one which drowned under the necessity to give and the responsibility of receiving; as tender as his, leaning to hers, was tender, but with a wisdom and a beyond-looking which he could not interpret, nor did he try.

All this each had seen in the ten years past but never with such clarity as on this holiday, and each, all his life, would remember.

That year winter took itself seriously and toward its wretched, indecisive departure Adam's mother fell ill in a strange city. Actually she lived on the branch: she had a small house in the country and an apartment in the town, some distance away, where Adam had been born. But relentlessly she pursued herself around the world as, having been endowed with a facility for the written and spoken word, she had employed first one, then both, prior to her marriage. When her marriage ended she redoubled her efforts; it was at once a living and a balm.

Now, from a city in which she had been speaking publicly, Helen's secretary telephoned Adam at his office and he called Hope. They would go at once, he said, Mrs. Riggs could dog-and-house sit.

They flew, and in the big plane talked quietly. Adam was troubled, and Hope doubly so; for Adam and for herself. She did not love Adam's mother but the ideal her, she suspected rather more than Adam did. But Adam had the lesson-book approach.

"She's not young," said Adam. "She's funny about her age, isn't she? Won't admit it in or out of print."

"That's funny?" inquired Hope. "Who admits it? All right, I do. Who's young? I'm a child compared to you and—good Heavens," she exclaimed so passionately that nearby passengers started in apprehension, wondering if they had hit an airpocket and not felt it, "I'll be 30 in the spring!"

"Make it 38 for me," her husband said, "come July. Helen must be 65, at least. She wasn't a child bride like you."

Thirty is 30; at 30 you are not 19 and walking in a garden. Sixty-five is more than twice 30.

She said, "Darling Helen will be all right."

"I'm sure of it. But suddenly I got the shakes. Maybe it's guilt, as we aren't close. On the other hand, my father and I—but that was when I was a kid, and at the right time."

"Are you trying to sell me the idea that you neglect Helen? She hasn't given you time not to, she's rarely where you are except now and then, for dinner and the best show in town."

"I know. But I could make more effort."

"Dear, you could. And you'd find yourself on a platform with her train vanishing into the distance. Or leaping out at an airfield just as the plane takes off. As for the extra letter, it would take weeks to reach her, forwarded from here to there."

"You're excusing me."

"Myself too, maybe. I like Helen."

"You get along fine," said Adam.

"Of course. She isn't jealous of me or, if so, I've never detected it. And a woman is supposed to be jealous of her son's wife."

"Helen," remarked Helen's son, "has remarkable ego; smooth and hard. Nothing penetrates."
